Everything Points To It as the Metal of Settlement.

CHINA HAS VERY LITTLE GOLD She Would Have Great Trouble in

JAPAN HAS NO REASON TO DEMAND IT

Getting a Large Quantity.

The Tael Is Not a Coin, but a Measure of Weight of Silver-Armies To Be Withdrawn.

Washington, April 12.-Careful inquiries both at the Chinese and Japanese legations of officials of the state department and officers of the navy, who, by residence In both the contending countries, have become familiar with their customs and currency, seem to indicate a strong probability that the indemnity to be paid by China to Japan will be paid in silver and not in gold, though no definite official statement to the effect has yet been re-

Silver is the measure of value, to a great extent, in both countries. Japan has not been called upon to negotiate any European loan payable in gold for the prosecution of the war. Therefore, she has experienced no especial drain of gold. China, on the other hand, being heavily indebted to England and other European nations, has exported within the past few years large quantities of gold, and the national treasury does not now contain any considerable amount of this metal exchange in the Chinese empire, and this being the case, it would be much easier to pay the indemnity in that metal than in meaning of the word "tael" in which the indemnity will be paid. The "tael" is not a coin, but a weight. It varies in value according to the price of silver. In Peking at the present time one tael is equal to $1.50 in Mexican silver dollars, or 75 cents American gold. The silver is put up in the form of builion or ingots, each ingot 20 to 50 taels. Beyond the fact that strong grounds exist for believing that the indemnity will be paid in silver and that at no time has gold been stipulated in the negotiations, no further details are obtainable at this time. The "tael" which will be used as the measure of value will be no doubt the Hai Kwan tael, in which customs duties are paid and whose value is as above stated.

It is believed that one of the Japanese armies now on Chinese soil will be re-tained there until the indemnity shall have been partially if not fully paid. The other armies will be returned to Japan and disbanded as rapidly as possible the information that the peace negotiations have been practically concluded between China and Japan eight days before the time fixed for the termination of the amnesty. So far as can be learned, a formal treaty has not been signed and may not be before tomorrow. Meanwhile there is a possibility that Li Hung Chang, the Chinese representative, may reject it at the last moment and another postponement occur. This is regarded, however, as only a possibility and not a probability, inasich as the plenipotentiaries have devoted a fortnight to their work and the conclusions have been reached after the most careful and deliberate consideration.

It is believed that among the concesin the amount of the indemnity demanded and that this is their principal compromise. When the signature of Li Hung Chang shall have been affixed to the treaty, peace will then be formally declared. The Chinese viceroy was clothed with plenary powers when he came to Simenoseki, and any action taken by him therefore is definite.

ANGLO-JAPANESE TREATY.

Canadians Find Objections to It and

Ottawa, Ontario, April 12.—The British Columbian government is in communication with the federal government concerning the Anglo-Japanese treaty. Under the terms the subjects of Japan are to enjoy the full liberty of settling in the British ire, or such parts of it as become parties to the treaty. This is arousing opposi-tion on the Pacific coast, where Chinese labor comes into conflict with that of the shor comes into conflict with that of the chites. The people there see little differnce, if any, between the Chinese and the apanese. Both are competitors in the eld of labor they do not desire to meet. There is another objection to the Angiospanese treaty. It contains a most facored nation clause, which might be inserpreted as compelling Canada to give Japan the same terms as she may give to another British colony. This is directly in opposition to the policy of the government in the promotion of preferential intercolonal trade. The treaty will not go into effect for five years. If Canada does not desire to be a party to it she has only notify these. Particle of the treaty will not go to notify Great Britain to that effect and will be exempted from its operations.

Tampa, Fla., April 12.-Passengers who arrived last night on the steamer Mas-cotte, from Havana, report that the in-surgents on or about March 25th attacked and captured the city of Jiguana, a town of about 10,000 inhabitants in eastern Cuba On April 3d Spanish troops attacked the city, but were repulsed by the insurgents three times and finally retreated, leaving their dead, numbering forty-five men. The Cubars lost fifteen killed and thirty wounded. The fight lasted three hours. Jiguana is near Santiago, in the province of Jiguana. The captain of the schooner, which landed near Baracoa, was not killed —as the Spanish papers say—by the fillbustering party. Two sailors of the schooner, who are English subjects, are in prison at Santiago de Cuba. They say that the Cuban chief can prove that a Spanish naval officer killed the captain of the

The tariff law directs that the income tax shall be paid by individuals "to the collector or deputy collector of the district in which they reside." for a Breathing Spell. Nashville, Tenn., April 12.—(Special.)— The legislature today took a recess until Monday week, April 22d. Finding that it had nearly 2,000 pages of printed evidence to digest, the committee on the governor's election made the request and the recess resolution went through with but little objection. The penitentiary committee will also continue its investigation during the recess. The senate today killed the bill regulating the charges of telephone com-panies, only six members voting for it, while twenty-one voted against it.

Mr. Ledgerwood's bill raising petit lar-ceny to stealing $100 was passed. Under the operations of this bill the number of envicts in the state penitentiary will be greatly reduced.

In the house, Mr. Buford offered a reso-ution authorizing the funding board to go to Washington to settle the financial differences between Tennessee and the na-

General McNulta Appointed Receiver of the Whisky Concern.

WILL BE A NEW TRUST

AN EARLY SALE IS PROBABLE It Is Claimed That Distillers Did $50,000,000 a Year.

THE RECEIVERSHIP WAS INSECURE

New Stock Is To Be Issued for the Old After the Sale-Secretary Gresham's Son an Attorney.

Chicago, April 12.-The first decided step showing the plans of the reorganization committee of the whisky trust was taken this afternoon when on its behalf General McNuita was appointed receiver with extended powers and with instructions to bring about a judgment sale of the property of the Distilling and Cattle Feeding

It is said that the sale will be made at an early date; that the property will be bought in by the reorganization committee, and that new stock will be issued by them and dealt out in pro rata shares.

The bill filed today was signed by Otto Gresham, son of the secretary of state, as special counsel and had upon its face as plaintiffs the names of Stephen D. Bayer and Hugo Blumenthal, of New York city, and D. C. Bennett, of Albany, N. Y. It recites the history of the Distilling and Cattle Feeding Company, which it claims was doing a business of $50,000,000 annually nd had paid $6,118,868 in dividends the 1st of last February, since which time no dividends have been declared. It tells of the actions of ex-President Greenhut and the directors, and states as the ground for the appointment of a receiver that the company is at present without a quorum of directors and cannot transact business; that if new directors were elected they would be powerless to act without possession of the property, which is already held by a receiver. The bill further recites that the company has large leases requiring large expenditures in rental and also unperformed contracts which the receiver is powerless to dispose of, and that as the business of the company cannot be trans-acted, the only remedy is a sale and dis-

The main object of the bill filed was to bring about a sale of the property and the next object was to make General McNulta secure in his receivership. It now transpires that at any time up to the present, the receiver could have been wrested from his position. In the Olmstead bill there was collusion by stock having been turned over to Ohnstead for the express purpose of signing a bill for receiver, and where jurisdiction is given a court by collusion the receivership will not stand. In the bill where McNulta was appointed receiver on application of a creditor in a $25,000 claim, the payment of the claim would have bee-all that was necessary to end the receivership there. Hence it appears that the re ceivership was very insecure until clinched by the order of the court this afternoon. The reorganization committee considers their move of today a very important on tribution of the property.

Washington, April 12.-Secretary Lamont has decided upon the main features of the the dedication of the Chickamauga and Chattanooga National military park. The ceremonies will begin on the battlefield of Chickamauga September 19th, and will comprise the formal announcement of the opening of the park by the war department, representing the government; two orations by speakers of national prominence, and the proper military display. On the following day exercises in continuation of the dedication, relating to the battles of Lookout mountain and Missionary ridge, will be held at Chattanooga with a somewhat similar programme.

In case of rain all exercises will take place at Chattanooga under cover of adequate capacity, to be provided as a prudential measure. The secretary will arrange to have all the armies represented in the battles participate in the dedication by setting apart the night of September 19th to the union and confederate armies of the Tennessee, and the night of the 20th to the armies of the Potomac and Northern Virginia. The regular army will be represented by the lientenant general and a detachment of troops. The Society of the Army of the Cumberland will hold its regular annual reunion at Chattanooga on the evening of September 18th, preceding the dedication, and to this all official visitors and representatives of the other army societies will be invited.

IMPROVEMENT OF THE MISSOURI.

Secretary Lamont Approves the Recommendation of the Commission.

Washington, April 12.-Secretary Lamont today approved the project submitted by the Mississippi river commission for the im provement of that river from the head of the passes to the mouth of the Ohio river, under an appropriation of March 2, 1895, of $2,665,000, an increased $8,000 by unallotted appropriations of 1894. The remaining un-expended appropriations are as follows: First and second districts, lower St. Francis, $88,000; upper Yazoo, $100,000; upper White, $53,000; lower White, $75,000; lower Yazoo, $150,000; upper Tensas, $300,000; mid-dle Tensas, $100,000.

Fourth district, lower Tensas, $132,000 Atchafalaya, $152,000; Lafourche, $90,000; Barataria, $60,000; Ponchartrain, $150,000; Lake Borgne, $50,000. Construction and river repairs, first and second districts—Restoration of old work at Daniel's point, $60,000; new construction above Daniel's point, $130,000; new construction of Osceola bar, $78,750; purchase of tow boat, $30,000.

The Party Separated After Getting Outside the Walls-Quigley Was Caught in a Car.

Newburg, N. Y., April 12 .- John Quigley the Astoria criminal, who, with Oliver Curtis Perry and three others, escaped from Matteawan asylum Wednesday night was captured shortly after noon today at Hamburg, eight miles north of Fishkill landing. He was in an empty coal car.

The capture was effected through th fforts of Washington Leroy, a resident of New Hamburg. Leroy, while walking along the tracks of the Hudson River railroad, saw a poorly clad fellow in an empty car on the siding. The man's general appear ance caused Leroy to believe that he might be one of the escaped criminals. He has far away, and then enlisted the help of Hamburg. These three men ran back to the car, and finding the stranger still there, they made him a prisoner. The mar could not give a satisfactory account of himself, and word was at once sent to the asylum. Two attendants were immediately sent out, and a single glance at the fel-low in custody was enough to enable them to say positively that an important capture had been made, as the prisoner was none other than John Quigley. The attendants, with Quigley in charge, returned to the asylum, and at 2 o'clock this afternoon the man was once more locked up in his cell. Quigley complained of nausea and weakness, evidently not having eaten anything since the escape. He was clad only in a pair of blue trousers, an old shirt of the asylum regulation uniform and was without shoes or stockings. He could not, or would not, give any account of the other fugitives, so it is supposed they separated immediately after reaching the highway. As yet Quigley has given no account of the manner of effecting his escape.

How the Men Escaped.

This afternoon Dr. Allison, superintendent of the Matteawan asylum for the criminal insane, gave out the fellowing statement regarding the manner in which the escape Wednesday night of five inmates was effected:

"Upon the return of Quigley a state-ment was obtained from him showing that the escape was due to a violation on the part of the attendants of the rules of the nstitution and also to a carelessness in the manner of locking up. A portion of the inmates of the isolation building were allowed to go to the dining room to their meals, but McGuire and Perry, among several others, received their meals in "Their food was given to them upon a plate with a metal iron spoon, The regulations are that utensils of this character should always be counted in and count ed out, so that nothing should be secured in the rooms. By a neglect of these pr cautions McGuire came in possession o two spoons, with which he was enabled to fashion keys to the outer doors. It is to fashion keys to the outer doors. It is not certain how he obtained the pattern, but he evidently worked in conjunction with another patient, to whom he passed the keys of the door. The patient on the which was entirely beyond the read any patient confined in the room, this fact led to the suspicion that the doors could not be opened without col-lusion on the part of some outsiders. This was true, but the assistance was afforded by means of the patient in the ward and the neglect of the attendants to properly try the doors that evening. The bolt not being properly thrown, it is said, McGuire was enabled, through the observa-tion opening in the door, to reach the up-per lock. It is not known certainly whether McGuire was enabled to reach the up per lock through the observation opening in the door, or whether he was assisted n a similar way by the patient Davis At any rate, after the visit of the night watchman McGuire left his room and open ed Quigley's door and the two entered the room of Perry, where they remained until the roundman's approaching visit.

"When reaching the door the watchman was suddenly set upon and secured in the manner that has been related in the press and as he was found. The patients, though having keys, were not able to leave the building through any of the exits and found themselves still barred from escape. They made their way to the chapel and reached the attic, and in found egress by means of the roof."

CHARGES AGAINST LEINDECKER.

Alleged to Have Illegally Paid Out Chicago South Town Funds.

Chicago, April 12.—Suit has been in-stituted in the circuit court by South Town Clerk Jacobs against Edward J. Leindeck-er, supervisor of South Town, and his bondsmen, Charles J. and Fred W. Lein-decker, to recover $100,000 alleged to have been illegally paid out of the town funds by Leindecker. The filing of this suit has disclosed the fact that on March 18th last, a few days before the meeting of the town auditing board, Supervisor Leindecker transferred his real estate to John P. Lein-decker for a consideration of $25,000. No-body seems to know just where Supervisor Leindecker is. His brother, John P. Lein-Leindecker is. His brother, John P. Leindecker, says he has just reurned from a visit in the country, but is unable to say where he may be found. John McCough, attorney for Leindecker, says he is still out of town and is not expected to return before Saturday. Jacobs's term as clerk of the South Town expires tomorrow. The clerk has a right under the statutes to bring an action, in the many of the town explicit. and yesterday he put the matter into the hands of Knight, Wagner & Kendig, with instructions to press the sult so as to get the case into court while he is yet town clerk. In his declaration in the suit Mr Kendig will allege that the South Town accounts have never been properly audited; that the officers are drawing large sums of money for their own use without warrant of law, and that the pay rolls have been stuffed. The round sum of $100,000 is given as the amount for which Leindecker is indebted to the town. But it is admitted that he may have some legitimate offsets which may reduce the claim considerably.

RIOT IN ARKANSAS. Iwo Men Killed by a Deputy Marshal.

Several Fatally Wounded. Little Rock, Ark., April 12.—A fatal riot occurred last night at Siloam Springs, near here, among the railroad men employed on construction work. Two of the rioters were killed in self-defense by Deputy United States Marshal Proctor, and two men who had previously quarreled among themselves were fatally wounded by each other. There has been trouble for some months on account of the laborers being divided as to nationality, the native Americans being ar rayed against the foreigners. A serious row started two or three weeks ago and only the prompt intervention of the officers prevented bloodshed. Last night two mer named Clendenning and Fleming, quarreled on some private account. Pistols were drawn and both fired at each other. When they fell fatally wounded all the men in the camp were attracted to the scene of the shooting. The excitement precipitates the riot which had been so long pent up. Aliens and Americans fought feroclously with clubs, knives and stones and there was much firing at random on both sides. Deputy Marshal Proctor ordered the rioters disperse, but he was set upon by the odthirsty navvies and shot. Seeing that his life was in danger, he shot at his assailants, killing two. The marshal was serious-ly wounded twice, but his brave and prompt action stopped the riot. A few of the rioters were arrested and the others es

CLUNG TO THE CRAFT

Intil Renumbed with Cold They Dropped Off One by One.

Halifax, N. S., April 12.-A story terrible battle for life reached he midnight from Catalina, Newfoundland. Five men-Joseph White, James Eady, Stephen Eady, Edward Eady and John White event out shooting in a boat. A squall upset it, but the men righted it. Time after time this occurred until the men could do nothing more than cling to the upturned craft, which was three miles out in Trinity bay. One after another succumbed to the cold and high seas, which

St. Louis, Me., April 12.-Louis Frank and Miss Kate Kolb, who were lovers and lived in this city, died for love in a horrible manner before daylight this morning, the man being the murderer and suicide by agreement. Their bodies were found lying side by side on Jacob Duffy's farm, a few miles west of the city, on the Walton road. In the right hand of the man was a revolver and each was shot through the

The tragedy was discovered by Charles Taylor, a gardener. Miss Kolb, a beautiful young woman, lay stretched upon the ground with her throat cut from ear to ear. Blood was still flowing from the ghastly wound. By her side was the corpse of Frank, whose face was horribly distorted by the agonies of death. He was lying almost face downward with his right arm thrown across the body of the woman. His throat was also cut from ear to ear. The knife, covered with blood, lay on the ground. The woman's hat lay crushed on the ground. Pinned to a ribbon was this note: "April 9.-We have both decided to die together, and if one or the other should happen to recover the other shall not be held responsible for the deed. We both are going to take poison, and I will do the shooting. We are not doing this on ac-count of any love affair, but simply because we do not want to live any longer. ### ADVANCE IN BEEF CATTLE Highly Elates the Stockmen of New

Santa Fe, N. M. April 12.—An advance of about 25 per cent on beef cattle in the last sixty days has served to greatly clate live stock dealers of New Mexico. Mutton has also gone much higher, showing an advance canally as great. Stock man of the vance equally as great. Stock men of the territory saw what was coming a year ago, and have husbanded their resources ac-cordingly. At the advanced prices some 4,000 cars of cattle will be shipped during the next six weeks. In 1894 but 500,000 head of cattle were on the ranges of New Mexico, but during the past year every stock man

Southern Cities Report Trade Improving on Consumers.

New York, April 42.-Bradstreet's toorrow will say:
"The feature in trade circles is found in "The feature in trade circles is found in the prices movement, more particularly those for cattle, dressed beef and petroleum. Drought, low prices and 'hard times' within two years have resulted in a shorter supply of cattle, prospectively 20 per cent less than last year. Live cattle are $1.60 higher per 100 pounds than last year and $1 higher than the lowest point this year. Dressed beef is 2½ cents higher than the average last year, the highest since 1885. The comparative scarcity of grade cattle, is emphasized by the fact that present quotations when made in previous periods of scarcity have fiever failed to bring a supply when one existed. Petroleum sold to $1.57½ on Thursday, 52 cents higher than on January ist and 75 cents higher than a year ago, which is more than three times the lowwhich is more than three times the low-est price in 1892, and the highest quota-tion since 1878. Reduced production and increased consumption indicate the former has been overtaken, which, with reduced stocks produces excitement in the

The outlook is regarded more cheerfully at New Orleans, where sugar bounty disbursements are ex-pected soon, bus at Jacksonville and Birmingham general trade is quiet and in some lines slow. Nashville and Mem-phis retain the Improvement previously recorded. Improved weather helps trade at Charleston. At Chattanooga dry goods and hardware are relatively most active."

What Dun & Co. Say. New York, April 12.-R. G. Dun & Co's weekly review of trade tomorrow will Progress toward better business continues, but it is slow and meets many obsta-cles. In speculative aspects and in whole-sale demand for goods the week shows imcles. In speculative aspects and in wholesale demand for goods the week shows improvement. Money markets are undisturbed and a little more active. But among the chief obstacles is the arkiety of operatives to secure better wages, even while many manufacturing works are running without profit and others at the risk of loss. In a number of establishments bettep-wages have been conceded, thus increasing the purchasing power of the people, but strikes have largely overbalanced setlements, several, of course, having thrown about 12,000 workers out of employment this week. Retail trade has improved on the whole since March, as the approach of Easter brings more business, but distribution to individual consumers still lags behind purchases of jobbers and such demand for product as springs from building and other investments looking into the future. Crop prospects will greatly affect the course of trade for some months, and the government report has little influence to discourage. For consumers the worst feature is the rapid advance in meals.

"For the first time in a long period prices of commodities average a shade higher than a year sgo, and in Great Britain, also, owing to different causes, a slight advance occurred in March. On both sides of the ocean the lowest level ever known may naturally be followed by some rise.

"Domestic trade shown by payments through clearing houses is 7.9 per cent larger than last year, but 20.2 per cent smaller than in 1833. About this time two years ago retail business began to drop off and millis to close, but half the difference in the volume of business is due to the fall in prices. The last week for exports was especially good, showing an increase of 18 per cent, but March returns for the principal products show a decrease of $5,283,481, or $1.5 per cent, against an increase of 10 per cent in imports at New York.

"The output of pig iron April ist was 158,132 was weekly, practically the same as March 1st, with a decrease of 1,080 tons in unsold stocks during the month. Deubtless heavy stocks were taken up by manufacturers in anticipation of a strike in coke works, but the apparent consumption is larger than at any other time for some months, and only a sixth less than in March, 1892. Bessemer iron has advanced a little further to $10.75 at Pittsburg, but there is no change whatever in prices of finished products during the week, and, while the demand continues good for structural forms and a little better for structural forms and a little better for structural forms and a little better for finished products during the week, and, while the demand continues good for structural forms and a little better for har, the marked decrease in demand for wire, owing to the scant purchases of farmers for fencine, affects the outlook. It seems probable that pig iron must recede unless a larger demand for finished products is soon developed. The shoe manuacture continues to lead all great in dustries, with shipments over 20 per cent larger in number of cases than a year ago, though not in value, while orders have been more liberal at advanced prices. "Sales of wool are particularly interesting, amounting for the week to 6,03),200 pounds and for five weeks previous to 5,621,200, against 25,277,676 in the same week of 1892. In brief, sales are close to the quantity required for a full consumption, and the long delay in placing orders and the lateness of the season make the proportion of mills at work larger than usual. No improvement in prices appears, and domestic wool does not respond to recent advances in foreign markets. The low price encourages manufacturers to compete much more vigorously with foreign goods of many kinds than they had expected, and for the medium and cheaper grades of goods they have more than the usual demand, because purchases of consumers have for two years been comparatively small. The better goods fare not so well, foreign competition being more effective, but there is a good demand for dress goods. In cottons continued strength appears, with further occasional advances of a quarter and an eighth in print cloths, and the aggregate is fair: Many agents are sold well ahead.

"Money is easer, and supplies are again coming from the interior, while foreign exchange has been at the exporting point. More commercial paper is now offering, principally in dry goods, though the amount is not large. Failures for the first feur days of April showed liabilities of $1,188,523, of which $445,840 were of manufacturing and $242,683 of trading concerns. Failures for the week were 207 in the United States, against 218 last year, and twenty-seven in Canada, against thirty-four last year."

Massachusetts Factory Operatives To Get Better Wages. Fall River, Mass., April 12.—The opinion

An attempt may be made to temporize with the weavers and spinners by promising them an advance in May or June, but it is not believed they will consent to any Mr. Borden, of the Ironworks mills, is not bidding for personal popularity, for he does not pretend to be a public benefactor, but is engaged simply in promoting his own interests. It is not improbable that he foresaw that his help would not work much longer at cut rates and that he made up his mind that cut rates were not calculated to boom trade. He was aware if other mills declined to follow suit he would have the field to himself and factories here and elsewhere would be forced to close

TRYING TO GET A PROPER DISPLAY

A Dancar Named Sara Has Caused a Commotion in a Jersey Town-The Good People Shocked.

New York, April 11.—(Special.)—What woman can do has been variously demonstrated; what she can do in an executive office with a magnitude of duties that would tax the mental and physical powers of her stronger brother, is shown in the work that is being done by the commit-tees interested in the coming Cotton States and International exposition to be opened and international exposition to be opened in Atlanta, Ga., September 18, 1895. Miss Ella M. Powell, chairman of the woman's department of New York city and Brooklyn, is the head and power of the ten individual committees that have the work in progress and wields her scepter with a personality so charming that her associates are confident the sincerity and earnestness of her efforts and her unselfish and untiring ardor will bear fruit long af-ter her duties here are finished and she re-

The work of the committees in this city and Brooklyn is in excellent condition and moving harmoniquesly to the end in view— a magnificent exhibition of woman's work at the exposition, and a permanent establishment in the city of Atlanta of an international excess. international exchange. The representative women now acting as chairmen or inter-ested in the work bespeak its perfection in every detail. Mrs. Joseph Thompson, president, who occupies a position similar to that filled by Mrs. Potter Palmer at the world's fair, will arrive from Atlanta this week and co-operate with Miss Powell in furthering the interests of this section. It is essential inasmuch as the new York committees cannot expect financial aid, that funds be raised here to defray necessary expenditures in this city. A series of small drawing room concerts has been given, netting, however, hardly more than enough to pay the cost incurred, and it was therefore suggested at the last meet-ing by Mrs. Joseph Bradley Read, that an entertainment on a large scale be given, which was unanimously adopted and will be carried out at a future date. Previous to that event, however-on April 24th, at the Waldorf—a concert will be given by Francis Fisher Powers, at which the distinguished Welsh tenor singer. Ben Davies will appear. reaching.' Shocked the Town.

Into the peaceful town of Arlington, N. J., a dancer came. Now discord is rife, fathers of families explain and deny and explain again, the Methodist preacher is out on an anti-club crusade and a certain entertainment committee is in danger of being expelled from the town's most exclusive social organization.

All this is because Mile. Sara danced before the sons of Arlington as did Herodias's daughter in days of old and pleased some of them greatly. Others were shocked. She tripped, a slippered living picture, last Friday night, at a banquet which the bowling section of the Arlington Club gave in honor of their visiting brethren, the Rutherford Bowling Club.

The curtain was rung down before the dancer had given half the artistic poses, to the great regret of some, to the approval of others. The president was shocked, the chairman of the entertainment committee felt mortified and all Arlington talks. She was taking yesterday. Her commuters might as well proclaim the story of the affair from the roofs of Askalon and at the city gates of Gath. As I journeyed with them in the smoking car yesterlay young men hurled airy persifiage about "a good time," "out of sight," and so forth at their elders, and the gray haired and whiskered ones reviled not again.

Arlington has a club which is one of the best arranged and handsomest in the New Jersey suburbs. It has a theater, bowling commodious dining rooms and cam a year or so ago within a very short distance of having a buffet, but for the memorable victory of the "drys" over the

The place is the center of Ailington's social life. In the winter the dances and card parties given there are the delight of the young, and every Weinesday the place is thrown open to the women of the place, who have the run of everything. The institution pléased everybody, with the exception of the Rev. Mr. Cole, postor of the Methodist church there, who fulminated against it from the plipit and exploited the Young Mén's Union, yet unfounded, which was to draw the young away from what he considered the giddy whirl of the Arlington Club.

Rutherford's bowling enthusiasts came down upon Arlington last Friday night, and the club made a supper and there were many gentlemen there—more than a hundred—and there was all else which savored of joility save wine and wassall. And as the athletes feasted a shadow fell upon the banquet board.

Warned Not To Say Anything.

Warned Not To Say Anything.

The president, I. L. Newberry, a custom house broker, of this city, arose.
"Gentlemen," he said, "I have just learned with regret that something will take place here tonight in the way of an exhibiplace here tonight in the way of an exhibi-tion which is not exactly as it should be. I am sorry to hear it. Yet this affair is under the patronage of the bowling com-mittee, and I am unable to interfere. If anything of the kind takes place, I trust that nothing will be said about it outside of these walls."

that nothing will be said about it outside of these walls."

Nobody went away. While the coffee and the cigars went around, the curtain was raised, for the supper took place in the club theater and ballroom. Two gentlemen in tights did some ground and lofty tumbling, and then Mille. Sara, lithe, dark browed and handsome, came upon the boards gurgling and wriggling.

There was a rustling of scant skirts, a twinkling of olive tights and red slippers, and a display of teeth which shone as tombstones when the moon is full. She gyrated like a top, she skipped like a fond gazelle, she bent forward like a commuter trying to catch an early train and fell backward, until she seemed headless and trunkless.

Such was Mile. Sara, late of Troy (Troy,

N. Y.), engaged in Newark, at great cost, and transported by raff to delight the sons of Arlington. This first she called the harem dance.

The night waned and midnight hovered over the zenith. Some of the fathers of the village gathered up their coats and went to their houses.

went to their homes.

Again the curtain rose. There was a jipgle of coins, a flash of shapeliness, and a swish of scanty drapery. Mile. Sara seemed to be distressed. She doubled and A Startling Climax.

"Poor thing," said Commuter to Newlot; "what a shame that this woman should be compelled to remain here when she is in such agony, and so thinly clothed, too." And then Newlot whispered something which sounded like "world's fair'Giptian theater," and commuter looked knowing Slowly the curtain went down. It arose again a minute later. The stage was brilliantly lighted. Something flashed out from the wings. It sped across the stage, unimpeded. A pair of red slippers was all which held it to earth. It stood for a moment posed upon heel and toe.

"Bronze statuary!" exclaimed Commuter.
"Where's the bronze?" inquired Newlot.
The curtain fell with a suddenness which nearly stripped off the stick which weighted it at the bottom. Mr. Newberry strode down the aisle, shaking his fist angrily in the direction of the committee.

"This is a shame!" he exclaimed indignantly. "I am too disgusted to talk about it, Your committee is responsible for this."

That closed the show. The dancer went away the next morning, and scores of Arlingtonians somehow knew the train she was to take and flocked to the station to see her depart.

Now, the end of this story is not yet. Mr. Newberry is very indignant. Judge For rester and Andrew Crawford, the commit-teen on entertainment, feel very sorry about it. "I never thought," said Mr. Newberry to me yesterday, "that the time would ever come when I would say that I was ashamed for the Arlington Club. The af-fair was under the control of the bowling section. It was too late to do away with the programme. I did not want to inter-fere. I wish now that I had stopped the whole business. It was arranged without my knowledge or consent. I shall present the matter at the next meeting of the board of governors, and expect that expulsions will follow. As an organization, the club never countenanced the show, and is in no way responsible for it."

Castellane's Millions. The Marquis de Castellane admits that there was a marriage settlement when his son, the Count de Castellane, wedded Miss Anna Gould in New York.

George J. Gould, when seen at his residence last evening, said: "I do not care to again deny a story which I have already denied."

There was a good deal of gossip before the wedding as to the amount of the set-tlement. George J. Gould denied at all times that there was any settlement whatever. At her wedding the Countess Castellane was worth at least $15,000,000 as her share of her father's estate. Rumer had it she had given her titted husband $2,000,000. He was said to have admitted this was his

A telegram from London dated February 12th, stated that the count's mother, before sailing for this country, cabled him these two words: "What settlement?" The count, it is stated, sent back four words: "Settlement fixed-15,000,000 francs." The count's friends all admitted that there was a set-tlement of from $2,000,000 to $3,000,000 made to the count outright, and they spoke positively, as though having received their information from headquarters.

Depew is Delighted.

Notwithstanding the "leak" in the United States supreme court which enabled the press to accurately forecast the income tax decision of that august body, the tax decision of that august body, the official announcement today created a stir in this very rich and very poor city.

Bankers, brokers, capitalists, professional men and politicians eagerly discussed the opinion, but the views of the whole are sufficiently summarized in those of the few appended. Chauncey M. Depew had just finished reading the news from Washington when he was asked for his opinion. He spoke rather sarcastically applied to real estate, was "very good aw-sound law; in fact, excellent law. Then with a twinkle in his eye he said: "Under it the capitalist who derives all his income from rents of tenement houses, flat houses, hotels and the like is not required to pay a dollar of taxes. The unfortunate man who rents places from him, however, but who makes his living in a different way, is taxed heavily. That is a nice way." Then Chauncey laughed heartily, and declined to dive deeper into

New Yorkers are awaiting with no small degree of interest the experiment of running postal cars on the Manhattan elevated railway. The new cars to be placed on the Third avenue "L" roads will be operated as part of the local delivery sys-tem, but following the successful experi-ment, now in its second year at St. Louis, they will be operated on the same plan as the traveling postoffice of the railway mail service. The cars will be run on a regularly advertised schedule, with a force of clerks sufficient to handle the business along the lines. At certain designated stations the car will be met by carriers, who will deliver the box collections just made and receive mail for distribution. The mail received will be at once assorted. If the car is going north the local delivery mail for sections tributary to the local branch offices on the line will be promptly pouched and thrown off at the station nearest the branch office. Yesterday Afternoon.

A Fatal Shooting Affray Near Edgewood

CAME UP OVER A GAME OF POKER

The Negro Who Did the Shooting Took to the Woods and Came to Atlanta. He Was Captured Last Night.

Charles Nichols and Ernest Miller, colred employes at the guano factory in Edgewood, met at Mason's crossing on the Georgia railroad yesterday afternoon and pulled their pistols. Miller got in the first shot, and sent a ball through the top of the other man's hat. Nichols turned quickly, put his pistol between Miller's eyes and pulled the trigger. The bullet struck a vital spot and the man cannot live.

There is a large force of hands employe about the cotton seed mills and phosphate works, near the place where the shooting occurred. At the dinner hour yesterday a squad went out into the woods for a game of poker. Nichols and Miller were with the crowd, and began to bet lively. They jumped into a jack-pot and began to stake their dimes recklessly. Miller, who is known to be a notorious gambler, put up his pile. held a good hand, but Nichols swept the Enraged at his loss Miller charged that his opponent had cheated and demanded the return of the money, which was promptly refused. There was a short fight, but the men were separated and both left swearing that they would settle the difficulty afterwards.

Later in the afternoon Nichols was standng with a number of other darkies near the station, just at Mason's crossing, talking over the affair when Miller was se pass some distance away. One of th groes called to him to come up and make friends with Nichols.

"I won't make friends with him, I'll teach him how to get all my money. He's got it in for me, but I've got what he wants

As he said that, the negro started up the railroad track toward the place where Nichols was standing. He stopped a few yards away and began to curse. Suddenly he pulled his pistol and leveled it at his enemy's head. His aim was good, for the ball cut off a tuft of wool and made a hole through the stiff hat. Miller fired a second time, but the ball went wide of its mark, and before he could fire again, Nichols, who, since the fight during the morning, had armed himself, jerked his gun cut, took quick aim and sent a ball crashing between Miller's eyes. The wounded man fell to his knees, but he was able to lift his arm again and fired. Again he missed. Seeing what he had done, Nichols stepped a few feet off, emptied the remaining barrels of his pistol and took to the woods. Dr. H M. Smith was called, and examined the hung on to life in spite of the fatal wound He was removed to a negro cabin near by.

In the meantime Nichols speeded through

Two Funerals.

The funeral services of Captain Briggs Napier were held this afternoon from Tattnall Square Presbyterian church and were largely attended. Among those present were the Macon Volunteers. The pallbearers were Messrs. C. M. Wiley, G. A. Keith, B. C. Smith, G. C. Conner, W. J. Julian, J. E. Wells, M. R. Freeman. The deceased was born in Macon fifty-six years ago. He was a son of the late Leroy Napier, who was one of Macon's wealthiest and best known citizens. The deceased went to the war with the Macon volunteers, but later organized a company of his own, of which he was captain. He lost a leg in the battles around Atlanta. After the war he located in Forsyth, He recently returned to Macon. In the late division of the Napier estate, the family residence in this city fell to his share and there he died last night of cancer. He leaves a wife, eight children and four brothers.

The funeral services of Sister Veronica were held this afternoon from Mt. de Salis academy, where she died last night, The deceased was born in Ireland sixty-five years ago, and spent the greater part of her days in convent life. She was a true and noble woman, and performed many acts of kindness, mercy and love.

Griffin, Ga., April 12.—(Special.)—It is stated authoritatively that Dr. W. M. Greenlee, who is at the head of the Alabama Normal university, will arrive in the city in a short while and begin the preparatory work look-ing to the establishment of the school which is to be opened in September. He will bring a part of his faculty with him and others will come later. This school will have de-partments of law and medicine, the faculties for which have been chosen from the members of these professions residing in Griffin. There will be also special features and a business department.

Dr. Greenlee is very enthusiastic over his prospects, and claims that he will open with more than 200 students. The people of Griffin regard this as a movement in the right direction, and are prepared to stand by and give the enterprise their heartiest support. Augusta, Ga., Aprl 12 .- (Special.)-The annual meeting of the Irish-American Investment Company was held tonight and the present board of directors was re-elected. A ividend of 6 per cent was declared, payable May 1st.

Quite a sensation is brewing in Augusta among the upper circles of the negro population. Last Saturday Addie Williams, che of their teachers in the public schools, čied and her place has been temporarily illed by Josephine White, a daughter of Rev. W. J. White, editor of The Georgia Baptist. He is one of the most prominent negroes in Geor-gia. At the election in the conference board of the board of education today Carrie Wilson was elected to fill the vacancy. This young widow is a daughter of George Walton, a barber, and also a prominent negro here, but she has just been connected with a criminal prosecution in Baltimore, and the leading negroes are indignant at her selection. The abduction of the rich young Toomer girl from the school in Baltimore s familiar to The Constitution's readers. Carrie Wilson, the woman just elected teacher, was the accomplice of the negro who sought to get possession of the girl. Tomorrow is the regular monthly meeting of the board of education, and a large dele gation of leading negro citizens will go beore the board to protest against the tion. There is much excitement over the matter among the leading negroes.

The recent grand jury voted to put in operation in Dooly county the general road law, providing for a road tax of $2 and an ad valorem tax to work the roads of the county. An attempt to collect this tax has elicited a kick from the citizens generally and a monster mass meeting has been called to meet in Vienna tomorrow to protest against the collection of the tax until next fall or petition the next grand jury to rescind the action of the last grand jury and do away with the law al-

HIGH WIND AT GUNTERSVILLE. One House Fired, a Church Moved and

Other Damage Done. Gadsden, Ala., April 12.-(Special.)-James Patterson, who lives near Guntersville, lost his house and its contents Wednesday night. A high wind was blowing and an outhouse was overturned. Patterson and his family left the house and went to his father's, whose house was less exposed to the storm. While absent the wind blew coals from the hearth and kindled a fire which destroyed the house. The wind took ten rolls of metal roof off the postoffice building and threw the colored Methodist church off its pillars. The front end of the church rested on the ground while the rear stood on posts six feet high. Under the rear the colored preacher had his horse stalled. It was crushed to death by the building.

Tapped the Till.

Dr. C. K. Crawford, a veterinary surgeon recently located here from Cincinnati, was caught in the act of burglarizing the John-son house cash drawer at midnight. He had stolen a pistol and pawned it for a drink and went back after the cash. The cash bell rang and waked up Manager Johnson, who caught the thief.

He has advised Mr. Nail not to publish a card or make a public statement beyond the general denial he has already made. A report comes from the Corona mines, in Walker county, that the miners there are very much dissatisfied on account of a cut in the prices of mining coal. Armed guards watched the property all last night for fear of an attack. The miners held a meeting today and decided not to accept the reduction. They decided to discountenance any and all attempts at violence to property and life and they will try to get all the miners now working at the place to go out with them, thus instituting a strike at the place. The situation is not so pleasant.

ONE YEAR FOR KELSO.

The Leader of the Mob Gets Off Lightly.

Birmingham, Ala., April 12 .- (Special.)-In the criminal court today, after being out twenty hours, the jury in the case against John Kelso, charged with participation in the Pratt mines riot of last summer brought in a verdict finding the defendant guilty of manslaughter in the second de-gree, and fixing his sentence at one year in the mines. Kelso was accused of being the leader of the mob which attacked the guards and negro miners who were coming oue of the mines on July 16th last. A guard and several negroes were killed,

SAVE 2 PER CENT IN INTEREST.

Borrowers in North Carolina Will Pay Less for Money Now. Raleigh, N. C., April 12.-(Special.)-A prominent bank president here was interviewed today and asked what the banks would do about the new 6 per cent interes law, which goes into effect tomorrow. said he believed they would all, national as well as state banks, comply fully with the law as regards all new contracts. It does not apply to the old ones. Quite a number of people who owe debts on which they are paying 8 per cent are attempting to get money at 6 per cent on good collateral to pay these off, but find this difficult to do. There is just now a very active demand for North Carolina 4 per cent bonds as an investment yielding a better net return than 6 per cent interest. Most of these bonds, perhaps five-sixths, are said to be held in the north. It was also stated by the bank official that the supply of money brought here and loaned at 8 per cent will be largely cut off. Fire in a Cotton Mill. Charlotte, N. C., April 12.-This morning at 11 o'clock fire was discovered in the warehouse of the Ada cotton mill. There were 848 bales of cotton in the warehouse. The building was brick, 80x40 feet with corrugated iron roof. A truck man going in for cotton discovered the fire. For two hours the firemen fought the fire, keeping it in the building. The end walls were then pulled down and as

PAPER CANNON. They Are Elastic, Light and Have Great Strength and Resistance. It was discovered some time ago that efficient heavy guns could be made out of composition composed largely of leather, says The Paper Trade Journal, Now it has been discovered that a good paper can be The tody of the gun is made of paper pulp The core is of metal and made very much like the cores of ordinary cannon. The exterior of the cannon is wound with wire. About five layers of copper, brass or steel wire are firmly wound on, thus binding the cannon. Outside of the covering of wire are various bands of brass. These bands are set with uprights, through which rods extend parallel with the gun. There are lock nuts on each side of the uprights, and these hold the rods in place, The process of making the gun is as fol-lows: A special grade of paper pulp in which the fiber is long is selected and well agitated. The usual hardening and rough ering ingredients, consisting of litharge wax, tallow, white lead and blue, are introduced. The pulp is then run into mold and cast of the proper shape. The steel core is put in; wire is bound around the exte-rior; brass or steel bands are securely set about the whole, and the parallel acds are applied. The rods, being of steel, possess a uegree of spring, and as they are fustened to the bands the result is a gun which will give way slightly at each discharge, yet

A person may make his muscles rigid and fall to the ground, in which case he is likely to receive a broken bone, but if the muscles are relaxed the bones will give way somewhat and will not break. The same principle is applied in the paper cannon The pulp, although exceedinly durable, will give way enough to prevent a break. The layers of wire, the binding of steel bands and the parallel rods add strength. In war times it is easy to batter down a brick wall or a stone foundation, but a protection of bales of hay, bags of sand or similar sub stances is not affected, as the shot is simply imbedded in it. The chief points for the pulp gun are elasticity and lightness. Be-ing lighter it follows that transportation will be easy. It is said that the leather pulp guns, which, if made of metal, would require a derrick to move, are readily trans-ported on light wagons. Paper pulp is no heavier than leather pulp.

The Goldbug Propaganda.

The Reform Club of New York is very busily engaged in its work of propagating goldbug views and arguments. We referred yesterday to the fact that this organization, which has heretofore pretended to be in favor of "bimetallism" has now thrown off the mask and comes forth in its true colors as the active agent of the small class of money sharks who desire to permanently fasten the British gold standard, with all its evil effects, on the people of this coun-

As an evidence of the fact that this goldbug propaganda is entering actively on its unpatriotic work, and that it is amply supplied with funds, we have be fore us a circular letter addressed in blank to editors of weekly newspapers.

A tremendous streak of liberality runs through this remarkable circular. The editors are informed that in consequence of its desire to make "an extension of its press work"-whatever that may mean-that it has concluded to go into the business of getting out "broad-side sheets" or "extras" to be folded in with the regular editions of newspapers.

As a matter of course these extras are to contain arguments in behalf of British gold monometallism which confers its benefits only on those who own or who can control the available supply of gold.

We shall watch with some degree of interest to see how many of our exchanges, especially in the south, lend their influence and circulation to the propagation of arguments in favor of a currency system that has been so productive of ruin and poverty. There is nothing in the arguments to be afraid of; there is no fear that any sensible person who has experienced the results of the single gold standard will be deceived by any statement that may be issued by the goldbug propaganda; but we are interested in knowing what southern newspaper will lend itself as a vehicle for the propagation of views that run counter to every interest of the people and to every natural impulse of

It is to be borne in mind that the Reform Club has thrown off the mask of bimetallism. Its members no longer profess to be anxious to secure "an international agreement." They now stand flatfooted in favor of the British single gold standard. In their latest publication they declare that "gold monometallism is the unavoidable destiny of this country." They announce that "bimetallism for us is a delusion and a

For this reason it will be interesting to know what newspaper pretending to be devoted to the interests of the people will lend itself to the propagation of arguments in behalf of the clique of monev sharks and gold gamblers which is behind this movement.

A Puzzling Case.

The authorities of Franklin, Pa., are in trouble. Under a new law, they sentenced two tramps to work on the public streets. The prisoners were loaded down with heavy balls and chains, and carried from the jail in a wagon to the scene of their work.

So far, so good. But when the tramps reached their destination, instead of taking up their picks or shovels, they sat down on the curbstone and proceeded to calmly survey the surrounding attractions. Commands, entreaties and advice were thrown away. The obstinate rascals refused to work. They held their own until the end of the day when they were carried back to jail and furnished with a scanty supper.

The good people and municipal fathers of Franklin feel burt. After going to the expense of providing the tramps with balls and chains and tools, they naturally expected to see them go to work. The result is a surprise and a

Money in Politics.

Eastern politics seems to be based chiefly on money and not on principle. Money as a motive power carries all elections and controls the men who are elected. Referring to the power that Mr. Platt has in the New York senate to fturn down Governor Morton and Mayor Strong whenever he wants to, The New York Tribune makes the following comment:

What is the secret of his power? It is no secret to those who are at all familiar with the working machinery of state politics; the machinery by which the success of a great party of honest voters asserting a principle is turned into a personal triumph for an irresponsible boss. This is the end-less chain of the machinery. It can be briefly stated so as to be perfectly comprehensil to the ordinary intelligence. The g corporations of this city, having legally corporations of this city, having legally "no souls," are made up of individuals who do have souls and have votes; who in their dual capacity believe in political principles and n notions of political n ndividual tain ity, and are affiliated accordingly with one or the other of the great parties. As stockholders and officers of the corporations trustees, as they say of great properties and important financial interests, they consent to the making of contributions to political campaign funds, not in accord with their personal views and beliefs upon political questions, but according to what they think is necessary to protect the corporate inter-ests which are at the mercy of the party in power. They contribute in many case to both parties, but always in such a way legislature. These contributions, so far as they have been made to republican commit tees, have been given to Mr. Platt in per-son, for reasons not far to seek. Disburse-ments for campaign expenses in senatorial and assembly districts throughout the state have been made to the candidates by his papers of a certain class in the rural dis tricts have received support from committee funds disbursed by Mr. Platt. Do we need point out how by a natural sequence the orporations get the worth of their money and how with each succeeding campaign the endless chain goes round? When it is known that every republican senator at Albany considers himself under personal obligations to Mr. Platt for campaign con-tributions, do we need seek any further for an explanation of his power to use that

What The Tribune so pointedly says about New York state politics applies to municipal, county and national polltics as well. The great corporations of the east have been as powerful with a democratic president as they ever were with a republican president. The recent investigation into the workings of the sugar trust, or we might more properly say the alleged investigation, revealed the fact that this great combination played in the last presidential election to both parties, and it was prepared to receive benefits from both and it was not disappointed.

The love of money, we fear, is at the root of all evil in politics.

The Right Man in the Right Place. Mr. Sam W. Wilkes has been appointed resident agent for South Carolina's exposition interests by the governor of that state, and it goes without saying that a better selection could not have Mr. Wilkes is a South Carolinian, and an ex-president of the South Carolina Society of this city. He is a gentleman of fine business ability and great social popularity, and as he is devoted to South Carolina and the exposition he will leave nothing undone to make his work under his appointment satisfactory to all South Carolina is to be congratulated upon having secured a representative who will take such an active interest in her affairs at the exposition. We do not know of any man who is better qualified to fill the position than Mr. Wilkes. He in confidence and friend in of all who know him, and he is moreover a man of fine judgment, energy and public spirit.

A Language Without Rules

A recent dictionary gives the opinions of fifty-seven learned men upon the pronunciation of various disputed words, and they disagree in so many instances that they are not likely to render much assistance to the students of orthoepy. A review of the work of the diction ary's advisory committee says:

Let us take for example so simple a word as the past participle of the verb "to be.' Probably you have been calling this "bin." Well, a good many of us have done that, yet out of eighteen English authorities—word "sharps," as they would say out west—thirteen say we should pronounce it "bean." (These are not Boston authorities, mark you). On the American alka mark you.) On the American side there is the rather handsome vote of twenty-six to eight in favor of "bin." Most of us have heard "clerk" pronounced

Most of us have heard "clerk" pronounced "clark," probably with the notion that it was simply a vulgar error, or the survival of an obsolete pronunciation. Yet the vote in favor of "clark" was twenty-one to thirty-one, and only one Englishman voted for it, which seems to favor the idea that it is modern rather than ancient. With reference to "citther", thirty-nine vote for "cette". modern rather than ancient. With reference to "either," thirty-nine vote for "eether" and twelve for "eye-ther." Those who when boys were licked out of their proclivity to pronounce "again" as though spelled "agane," will learn with pain that they were licked in vain, as there are nearly as many for one pronunciation as for the other. This it not the worst of it. If instead of pronouncing "schedule" as though spelled "skedule," you were to sound it "shedule," you would have seventeen of the advisory committee at your back.

The more authorities we consult, the more we become perplexed over the difficulties of our language. There is the same trouble with English grammar. Many sentences which are condemned by grammarians are defended upon the ground that their forms of constituction were sanctioned by the great writers of the Elizabethian agethe geniuses who gave us what is best in our literature nearly two centuries before there was such a thing as English grammar. In the main, our language is independent of rules. Of course, there are pronunciations and forms of speech notoriously illiterate and provincial, but on the other hand, among educated people it is common to find many different fashions of orthoepy and grammar, each of which is backed by one or more respectable authorities. It is impossible to please everybody, and when a man finds that his pronunciation and grammar have the support of recognized anthorities he should not be in a hurry to make a change simply because those who accept other authorities charge him with certain irregularities. Inside of some well-defined bounds our language may be spoken and written with an almost lawless degree of freedom.

Where the Money Kings Live.

According to a statistical article in Chambers' Journal, we have in this country seventy citizens whose aggregate wealth amounts to nearly $3,000, 000,000, giving an average of $37,500,000 to each person. One estate is returned at $150,000,000. Five individuals are rated at $100,000. 000 each; one at $70,000,000; two at $60,000,000; six at $50,000,000; six at $40,000,000; four at $35,000,000; thirteen at $30,000,000; ten at $25,000,000; four at $22,000,000, and fifteen at $20,000,000.

Besides these seventy big fortunes there are fifty other persons in the eastern states worth over $10,000,000 each. Pennsylvania has sixty-three millionaires, worth in the aggregate $300,000 000. Sixty persons in three New York villages are worth $500,000,000. Boston alone has fifty families whose wealth amounts to $10,000,000 each. Chambers' Journal says:

We have nothing to compare with such individual cases of wealth in Great Britain. Baron Rothschild and Lord Overstone each left about $17,000,000; the late Lord Dudley left $20,000,000; the late duke of Buccleugh, estimated to be the richest Scotchman, left estates valued at $30,000,000. One living English duke is valued at $50,000,000, and another at $40,000,000, but not many names could be added to these to place against the above list of American fortunes. In 1834 there were only 104 persons in the United Kingdom whose incomes from business profits were returned as over $250,000 a year. In 1886 there were only seventeen estates which paid probate duty on about $1,250,000 each.

These are bewildering figures. If wealth continues to concentrate in the hands of a few in the east for another generation as it has done in the past the southern and western states will be mere provinces, and the politics, legislation, commerce, industry and society of the entire country will be dominated by a few hundred families in several of the New England and middle states. Are we soon to reach a point where a few money kings will elect presidents and congresses, and shape the destinies of the nation with all the absolute power of a despotism?

But will this concentration of wealth continue? We cannot believe it. Conditions have changed in the past, and we may expect them to change in the future.

An Explanation Needed.

The New York World, commenting on the statement of a correspondent that the bullion value of silver-controls the price of wheat and cotton, goes on to say:

But supposing all this to be true, and supposing that, as The Atlanta Constitu-tion contends, the decline in the price of sil-ver is the direct and sole cause of the decline in wheat and cotton prices of recent years, what are we to do about it? Is there any process of legislation by which the value of silver can be increased so as to carry up the price of wheat and cotton? Has not congress tried that ade-quately under the Bland coinage act and the Sherman silver-purchase law? Did not the government's undertaking to buy the whole silver product of the United States result simply in an increase of the silver output and a consequent further decline in the value of silver? When the act first went into effect silver, which had sold at 93 cents an ounce the year before, advanced for a brief time in 1890 to $1.04, but quickly declined again, selling at 90 cents in 1891, 86 cents in 1892, and 75 cents-the lowest price that had ever been known-in 1893. Is it possible for congress then to restore to silver its lost value? Would any such fect flow from free coinage by the United States without concurrent free other countries? Would it add anything to the actual value of silver to coin it into dollars which would still be nothing but bullion in European countries?

If it is true that the decline in silver is the direct cause of low wheat and cotton prices, is it not also true that the decline in silver is a fact wholly beyond reach or remedy by legislative flat?

In discussing this matter with The World. The Constitution desires it to be distinctly understood that it has no hope of making an impression on the mind of any eastern editor who is controlled by or who sympathizes with the views and purposes of those who have undertaken to make the demonetization of silver permanent. At the very beginning of its com ments The World appears as a seeker after information. But does it really want information on the subject? We think it will be found that The World holds that all values, both absolute and relative, are fixed by the laws of commerce and that the legislation of na tions can have no effect on these values.

In substance, this is the same as de claring that legislation can have no effect whatever on commerce; but, when put in this shape, we doubt whether an eastern goldbug would care to subscribe to the statement either in private or in public. For it is a prepos terous contention, having no basis in reason, fact or experience.

What caused the sudden fall in silver in 1893? The closing of the Indian mints-the cessation of the demand for bullion from that quarter. Did commerce close the mints, or were they closed by the "fiat" of legislation? Now here is a case in which the public saw with its own eyes the effect of British legislation on the value of silver, and it is hardly possible to suppose that any reasonable person can be brought to believe that legislation cannot affect values. The World refers somewhat lightly to the Bland-Allison act of 1878, and the Sherman law of 1890, but nothing is more certain than that these laws, by keeping up the price of silver, maintained the prices of American products. There was a gradual and constant de cline going on all the time, but our currency never rested entirely on the singold standard until 1893, when Clevelandism was substituted for the democratic policy. Does The World really believe that either the Bland-Allison act or the Sherman law was an adequate effort on the part of congress to restore the value of silver? Can any law be adequate that fails to give silver all the advantages in the law and at the mints that gold now possesses? Is there a sane person in the United States today who nonestly believes that if our mints opened to the unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, any bullion owner in this country or in the world would part with an ounce of silver for less than he could exchange it for in American cotton and wheat? With the mints open to silver an ounce of bullion would be worth $1.29, coined or uncoined, because it could be exchanged for $1.29 worth of American goods. England would have to give us the full value of our cotton and wheat and every interest and industry in the whole country would be restored to prosperity.

Why does The World suppose that commerce is not affected by legislation? On what ground does it base its appa rent belief that the constant and inex haustible demand at the mint would have no effect on the value of silver? Why does it seem to hold to the idea that the trade and commerce of the United States have no more potency han those of India or Mexico?

We hope to persuade our contemporary to give us its reason for entertaining the queer views which we have quoted above.

It is not possible that the glamor of Clevelandism will cause any honest democrat to advocate the single gold standard.

Now that the Reform Club has declared that "bimetallism is for us a delusjon and a snare," the little cuckoos hereabouts will have to get to cover

Now is the time for democrats everywhere to speak out in meeting

Now that Charles S Fairchild E Ellery Anderson and the other professors of Clevelandism in the Reform Club have de clared in favor of the single gold standard. how long will the cuckoos in this region continue the gay masquerade of "bimetallism?"

We are of the opinion that the people are beginning to see the true inwardness of goldbuggery.

The person who has been hired to do Henry Watterson's editing for him is very angry because the democratic executive committee of Illinios has called a convention of the party to make a declaration for or against the free coinage of silver Poor old Courier-Journal!

People who are opposed to goldbuggery should organize everywhere.

EDITORIAL COMMENT. A Kansas exchange tells of a man who mortgoged his farm to buy his wife a pair of diamond earrings. The wife took in washing to pay the interest on the mortgage, but the first job she did she lost one of the "sparks" in the suds, where-upon she tried to hang herself in the barn, but the rope broke and she fell on a Jersey cow, worth $150, and broke its back. He husband then undertook to shoot the cow to end its misery, but the gun burst and destroyed his eyes and his wife ran away with a lightning rod peddler. The mort-gage is still on deck and bids fair to live to ripe old age.

The agricultural traditions of the in fluence of the moon on vegetation are no longer scoffed at by true scientists. Many em are absurd, but underlying then is what some now consider a general principle that the moon produces air currents as it does sea currents or tides, and that through this influence on the weather it exerts the marked influe credited it. Science is slowly learning that it will never do to close its eyes to any tradition of the general experience of practical men, however unlearned.

When the conductor called for is ticket he said: "I am on the staff of the —, of Nashville; I suppose you will pass me?" The conductor looked at him sharply. The scandal attaching to the pulpit oc-casioned by the slanders uttered by the Rev. Dr. Lansing against President Cleveland is overshadowed by the frightful ac cusation brought before the Chicago pres-bytery against one of its members, the Rev. Dr. Ryan. If the equally Rev. Dr. Lewis is to be believed, the wretched man is actually guilty of—one hesitates in these enlightened days to name it—heresy. Happily so appalling a charge was too much for the presbytery. It refused to soil its hands by even ordering an investigation, so that the country will be spared consider ation of the shocking details. It is under-stood, however, that the principal speci-fication is that Dr. Ryan, after having studied the anatomy of marine mammalla, reached the conclusion that the book of Jonah might be a powerful oriental parable, not to be accepted as a literal fish story. It is needless to say that the plous city is panie sricken over the affair.

Mr. A. B. Shepperson, the accomplished statistician of the New York cotton exchange—the author of !"Cotton Facts," and secretary of the United States senate special commission on cotton, has presented and endorsed to a Boston audience a new universal cotton gin, the invention of Mr. S. L. Johnson.

The universal gin is an adaptation of the principles of the roller gin; principles which have heretofore given unsatisfactory results. The main feature of novelty is the use of a vulcanized rubber roller, against which there plays with exceeding rapidity a knife, this being the essential working part of the machine. A distributing apron armed with picks serves to pre sent the cotton to the roller, and it speedily delivered free from the seeds in the proper receptacle.

The principle of separating the seeds in a rotary machine has a number of ad-vantages over the old saw gin, among which may be noted an absence of anything in the process which can injure the fiber of the cotton. The machines which were shown are light and apparently serviceable, and while the capacity of a single one is not claimed to be equal to that of a saw gin, still for the same cost a number of machines can be furnished which will turn out an equal amount of ginned cotton. In economy of horsepower, the new machines seem to have a great advantage, requiring at most half as much power per bale as the old product. An important side feature of the universal gin is its immunity from fire. Its construction is such that it puts out fire which may be started within the machine, as a series of tests showed beyond question.

In view of exorbitant rates for insurance in the south this is important. Another adaptation of the new system is to the freeing of wool from burrs. The wools has always been a maiter of large expense to wool consumers here, the usual method of removing them being by chemcals, which weaken and destroy the of the wool. The universal gin in its tests showed the possibility of accomplishing this mechanically without injury to the

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE. The Moon and the Weather.

Editor Constitution-In your issue of th 11th you are disposed to agree with a rather wide-spread popular belief in a connection between the phases of the moon and the changes of the weather, and to disparage the conclusions of science. Now science is not perfect, and no one is more ready admit it than a genuine scientist. But you will doubtless admit that the scienti method of solving such problems is the correct one, viz: first of all get the facts That changes in the moon's phases and changes in the weather should sometimes coincide, is not only possible, but probable on the supposition that they change inde-pendently of each other. But whether they change coincidently often enough to raise presumption of cause and effect can be decided by record only, not by vague mem-ory. Now such record has been made at the observatory at Paris, covering a period of thirty years, and the data obtained can-vassed by Arago, foremost among men of science. The only connection he could dicover between moon and weather was that there was slightly less cloudiness at the time of the full moon. Other things equal, this, of course, favors the occurrence of this, or course, lavors the occurrence of frost. Less cloudiness at the full moon is not an occult mysterious thing; its explanation is within easy reach. The moor turns a larger illuminated face to the earth when full than at other times. The surface thus presented is quite hot, but not he to the point of self-luminosity. It send considerable heat to the earth, but considerable heat to the earn, enough of it reaches its surface a thermometer placed in the fo large reflector—a very delicate reason is that its heat, being of learners through, but is reason is that its heat, being of low in sity, cannot pass through, but is absorbed the upper portions of our atmosph just as the heat of the luminous sun pass through the glass of a hotbed, the heat radiated by the soil of the

Some popular beliefs are well founded; some contain a mixture of truth and error and some are groundless. If this one touching the moon is without foundation, how explaints prevalence. Several explanations ing the moon is without foundation, how explain-its prevalence. Several explanations occur. It may be a remnant of the astrology which attributed such wonderful power to heavenly bodies. It may be founded on the passage in the first chapter of Genesis, where it is said of the sun and moon. "let them be for signs and for seasons." Or it may arise from that peculiarity of the average human mind, that it cannot permanently remain in doubt. That is a painful condition from which it ever strives to escape. It seeks an explanation of all phenomena, a solution of all mysteries. The weather is very closely related to human welfare, its changes frequent and more or less periodic: witness rainy Sundays for instance, sometimes for many weeks in succession. Now of the heavenly signs the moon changes most frequently, most markedly and at the same time periodically, and the bewildered intellect catches at connections between the changing moon and changing weather. The effect of the moon on the tides may have suggested the connection; it has certainly strengthened popular faith in it.

But admitting that the moon may produce nection; it has certainly strengthened popular faith in it.

But admitting that the moon may produce tides in the atmosphere, it does not follow that atmospheric waves would produce changes in weather. Such changes are caused by the currents (winds), but waves generate no currents except when they beat against shore lines. In midocean the tides rise and fall, but no currents form.

It was nothing to him and yet it showed him that the whole rate schedule of the road was wrong. We found it so That 2 cents saved a good many dollars. We are constantly having small cases brought to us that in themselves mean nothing, but which involve an important principle. It never does to overlook the little things."

The ordinance also prohibits the placing of goods on the street beyond a certain distance, for display.

I notice that some of the merchants

One of these, printed on a yellow piece of board in lamp-black characters, read; "This sidewalk for carriages."

Two summers ago Mr. Persinger was sent to a number of the fashionable lake rescrts to write society news for two of Chicago's big newspapers. At these places he met scores of the wealthy fashionables of the Porkopolis and became popular with them. He learned a great deal about them through observation, got an insight into their wants and learned their peculiar fads. There was, he found, a large element of these people and every one of them liked to read of himself or herself in the columns of the newspapers. They liked to peruse nice things said about their functions, their lovely gowns, their spanking teams and gayly colored drags. It occurred to him that here was a fine It occurred to him that nere that field for a paying newspaper. These peofield for a paying an organ. But he longed to see the inside of sentoraial poker. Even as the scriptural hart is said to pant after the water brooks, so did the major's artistic soul yearn to sit between a senator and a judge with an ace-full on a jack pot, and "lift 'em going and coming." Soon occasion presented itsalf. The ace-full did not. The genial man dropped his evening's pile and smiled him-self out. Next night, like Colonel Pen Ahdem's angel, "he came again." A little cripple boy, with deformed body and sad, drawn face, limping painfully about on crutches, was a pathetic figure in the crowd of sightseers at the exposition grounds the other afternoon.

The little fellow was hopping along with great effort, each great effort, step costing him a

His father, a big, affiletic fellow, was walking beside nim and now and then the two would stop and gaze with interest upon something that would attract their attention. The little fellow's eyes would brighten up and his

His eyes fed eagerly upon the scenes that his father pointed out and he scenes that his later pointed out and he tried hard to laugh and appear happy when his father told him stories and sought to divert his attention from his suffering. Spite of all his efforts, a look of intense pain would shoot across his sharp features, chasing away the smile that he tried to force. From spot to spot the little fellow followed his father, hopping along slowly. The happy, healthy crowd looked on the little sufferer with deepest sympathy, but turned away at the sight of his pain-lined face.

Slowly the ill-mated pair went over the grounds, the little fellow enjoying the bright spring outing after a fashion, notwithstanding the agony of his affliction. He was a blot upon the bright canvas, an ugly deformity that marred the beauty of the scene and gave it the tinge of sadness and solemnity. But those who saw him bravely trying to forget his sufferings and put on a smiling face, carried away with them a strong, vivid impression of heroic patience and endurance that will cause them to accept their fate with better grace. tried hard to laugh and appear happy

THE MASK IS OFF.

The Reform Club's Acknowledgment of Its True Position

HAS CREATED A DECIDED SENSATION

Goldbugs Found the "Bimetallism" Bluff Wouldn't Go.

THE LINES WILL BE CLEARLY DRAWN The Advocates of the Single Gold Standard Money of the People on the Other.

The mask has been torn off The declaration of the financiers of the Reform Club that "bimetallism for us is a delusion and a snare," and that "the single gold standard is the unavoidable destiny of the country" shows up in their true colors that organization and those whom it represents. "Bimetallism" has been the shibboleth by means of which they have thought to fool the people of this country.

"Gold standard? Oh, no," they have said again and again. "It is bimetallism we advocate!'

And the cuckoos would chirp their little chirp.

"Bimetallists are we," they have been urging in chorus. True, when cornered they would acknowledge that their idea of bimetallism was to measure everything by the gold standard but they would relterate their belief in bimetallism and "hon-

More chirping by the cuckoos and cuckoo organs.

But the song didn't seem to take at all well. The people saw through it all and the term "bimetallist" became odious through its constant use as a cloak to hide the hypocrisy of the money owners and money changers. Governor Atkinson, for instance, voiced the almost universal sent-ment when he declared that he was suspiclous of any man who talked of being a bimetallist as he knew that man was a goldbug trying to disguise himself. The hypocrisy of it all has been so clearly shown, the "bimetallic" coat of mail has been so punctured by the shafts of truth, that in desperation the wearers have cast it aside.

Did the wearers in desperation conclude it useless to keep up the farce any longer and decide that the only thing left for them to do was to make a straightout fight under their true banners, or will they swear their declaration a slip of the pen of some irresponsible hireling and keep on trying their old game?

Whatever the motive, the fact exists. Here is the fact. It is well worth repeating, for it shows more clearly than anything else could the real purposes and the real opinions of these "friends" of silver. Here is the statement from the Reform Club pamphlet, "The People's Money:"

"Gold monometallism is the unavoidable destiny of this country; the sooner we recognize this and fix it in our laws, the er will we reap the fruits; the longer we defer the recognition, the more we im-pede and postpone its establishment by law the longer will our industries be hamper ed and all our business deranged by financial unrest and commercial apprehension Should we unfortunately let go the single gold standard, there will be nothing to take hold of but silver monometallism; for bi-metallism for us is a snare and a delusion."

Shining Lights of Reform. The Reform Club is an organization based on Clevelandism, pure and simple resentatives of the club, and it is the fountain head from which the cuckoo orans receive their inspiration. The club represents, more distinctly than does any other organization or body of men, the principles and ideas of the eastern democ mocracy and mugwumpery that has been dominant under the present administration the "bimetallism" of the old interests, and It is to this club that the direct represen tatives of the present administration refer matters political and appeal for arguments with which to meet those of the people who do not agree with the financial policy of the club and the administration.

To the club's "committee on sound cur rency" has fallen the burden of supplying these arguments. It may be interesting in this connection to print the names of that committee. Some of them are names that will be recognized. Here they are:

Charles S. Fairchi'd, chairman, Calvin Tompkins, secretary, E. Ellery Anderson, William J. Coombs, Henry Hentz, Henry L, Nelson, Charles Biggs, Lawrence E. Sexton, John DeWitt Warner, Horace White, Henry DeForest Baldwin, A. August Healy, Wallace Macfarlane, William S. Opdyke, Fred Perry Powers, James Speyer, Henry B. B. Stapler, William L. Trenholm, Everett P. Wheeler, Louis Windmuller, Frank S. Williams.

The Constitution's Washington special containing the Warner-Buchanan-Morton correspondence, and exposing the real position of the Reform Club, created a great deal of talk in Atlanta yesterday.

But the talking was not done by the "bi metallists" of the Reform Club class, of whom Atlanta has a few. They were mum This distinct statement of their real position seemed to stagger them.

Others taiked, however. It was a notice able fact that no very great surprise was manifested. The announcement that the eastern idea of bimetallism meant nothing else than gold monometallism was no news to those who had made any sort of a study of the financial question-and the people are studying that these days.

"It means that the lines are to be squarely drawn," was Governor Atkinson's comment. "We have all known that it had to come sooner or later, and the tearing away of the mask cannot surprise unybody very much. The people of Georgia are, I believe. overwhelmingly for silver and they will declare themselves on the first opportunity."

When asked about the rumor of Senator Gordon making the race against him, Governor Atkinson smilingly replied that he had

State Treasurer Hardeman. "There can be no hope of prosperity in this country until the people assert their rights and restore silver to its proper place as primary money. And the people are alive to that fact," said State Treasurer Hardeman. "This talk of 'bimetallism' in which the goldbug contingent has been indulging cannot have fooled anybody who has made a study of the situation, but it was designed to fool the people who had not made such a study, and might have sucof 'bimetallism' they have been talking has meant the single gold standard and nothing else, and the action of the Reform Club people in declaring for the gold month metallism is simply an acknowledgine that the charges made by the friends of silver are true."

"Uncle Bob" was running up a column of figures and as he finished he tossed aside his pen and said:

"Abraham Lincoln and his emancipation proclamation did not begin to work the ma terial harm to the south that the act of 1873 demonetizing silver did. The last straw was the unconditional repeal of the Sherman act, which wiped out the last vestige of chance for the people's money. Its effect has been confined to no section. The property of the manufacturer, the agriculturist, the working man, has been swept away and the only chance of a restoration of prosperity lies in putting silver where it was before the crime of 1873 and all the resulting acts up to that of repealing the purchasing clause of the Sherman act without the necessary substitute legislation. It's well that there will be no beating about the bush in the fight at the ballot box that is to come. Unless all signs fail the friends of silver are overwhelmingly in the majority in Georgia, and one thing is certain-they are going to vote as they think. No straddle this time."

The Third Term Idea. The suggestion of third termism in that correspondence," began Comptroller General Wright, "won't go with anybody. If General Grant, at the height of his popularity and the idol of his party, couldn't get a nomination from that party on account of the opposition to the third-term idea, it will certainly be folly for anybody else to make such an attempt. I don't think Mr. Cleveland has thought of the thing seriously. That Reform Club declara-That sounds like a challenge for a fight, and they'll get it. The people of the south are for silver and they don't want any straddling.

Platform Declarations Clear. It is the opinion of those who talked on the subject at the capitol that the Reform Club's pronunciamento means that there will be no straddle of the financial question in the next national platforms.

"In my opinion," said Comptroller General Wright, "the candidate who is most friendly to silver will win."

At the penitentiary department both Judge Turner and Dr. McIntosh, the new principal physician, are strong silver men. Speaking of the Buchanan letter printed in yesterday's Constitution, Judge Turner said: "That certainly looks like the strongest kind of testimony concerning the situa-tion in the west. As for the Reform Club's declaration, that means that the gold ele ment is going to quit its 'bimetallist' mas-querading and it is going to fight to the With such direct declarations, it looks as if there will be little chance of straddles in party platforms. Yes, it will be a vigorous fight. How it will result elsewhere we cannot, of course, say, but we can come pretty close to guessing the result in Georgia. The people have no faith in the administration policy on the financial question."

The Buchanan letter is universally regarded as strong evidence of the great strength of the silver sentiment in the west. The writer's appeal to Secretary Morton to have somebody answer "Coin's Financial School" causes a smile wherever that little publication is read.

And the question is asked, "Why doesn't omebody answer that book? The answer to that question is easy.

The Concessions Committee Reported $54,000 Returns Yesterday.

BUSY MEETING OF THE BOARD

Chief of Construction Wilkins Authorized to Advertise for Bids for Four More Buildings.

The concessions committee of the exposition is not only securing a fine array of attractions for the amusement branch of the exposition, but is displaying magnificent ability in the matter of good percentages.

A report submitted at the meeting of the executive board yesterday told of concessions let this week from which percentages amounting to $54,000 had been obtained. The report of the committee showed further that for every concession let there had been a large number of bidders and that the prize had been eagerly contested for. The committee, at the conclusion of the reading of the report, was congratulated for its excellent work by Dr. Spalding, who presided over the meeting. Then, on motion of Mr. Allen, the entire board thanked the There has been a great rush of applicants for concessions of all kinds. There are yet a number of important ones to be let, and if the future negotiations of the committee result as favorably as the contracts already closed the concession feature will prove one of the most paying branches of the exposition. The chairman of this committee is Mr. Alex W. Smith,

Mr. Inman's Suggestion.

Director S. M. Inman made an intere suggestion to the board that will doubtles result in a highly attractive exhibit at the exposition. He said that an exhibit of cotton from all the cotton producing countries of the world, showing the state in which the staple was sent to market by the several countries, would be of wide in terest, and he suggested that the matter be brought to the attention of Dr. Dabney, the chief commissioner of the government Printing in Colors. Mr. H. H. Cabaniss announced that Mr. Lockwood, of the R. Hoe company, was in the city yesterday and stated to him that the Hoe company would have an ex-hibit on the ground showing the interesting process of printing colored newspaper exhibit. The motion was adopted.

Flowers at the Kimball.

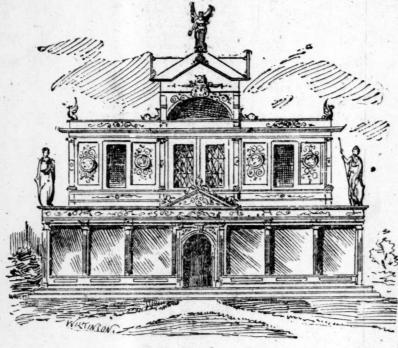

Today the young ladies interested in the woman's board will have charge of the Brookwood floral office in the Kimball house for the purpose of raising money for the woman's building. So many beau-tiful and attractive young women and so many lovely flowers are sure to draw a trenendous patronage, and it is thought that hundreds of dollars will be taken in by the fair young saleswomen. Mrs. Joseph Thempson, Mrs. Hugh Hagan, Mrs. Sarah Grant Jackson and Misses Iza Glenn, Lucy Peel, Alline Stocking, Mildred Cab-aniss, Augusta Wylle, Sadle Williams, Julia Wilkins, Belle Newman and Margaret Newman will be in charge of the office.

SUING FOR DAMAGES.

Maxwell Keely Claims That He Ha Been Injured $10,000 Worth.

Maxwell Keely, whose name has upon wo occasions appeared upon the defendant's side of a case, is now plaintiff in a damage suit for $10,000 which he filed yesterday against the Southern Perfumery Company and E. L. Bergstrom, who is the manager and agent of the company.

Keely alleges that the company and Bergstrom did falsely arrest and imprison the petitioner, on or about February 20th Messrs. J. E. Miller and Joseph H. Johnson, Jr., were granted the concession for seiling miniature busts of Jefferson Davis and Henry W. Grady. This concession will be located in the fine arts building.

The busts will be made in Atlanta.

The concession for a beer carden and concert hall was granted to the Atlanta Ice and Brewing Company. This company proposes to locate a splendid building on the Terraces, where the amus sions will be located, and give a first-class concert performance. A Small Art Palace.

Fred Schmohl, a distinguished artist in clay, has been granted an important conclay, has been granted an important concession. He will erect a splendid building on the terraces with a frontage of fifty feet, in which he will show the process of modeling in clay. He will have a number of expert modelers and the work will be conducted in full view of the spectators. Mr. Schmohl has attained distinction in his particular line of work.

Will Advertise for Bids.

Mr. Grant Wilkins, chief of construction, asked for authority to advertise for bids for the construction of the state building, the fire building, the auditorium and the administration building at once. He named April 26th as the time for closing the bids. He exhibited to the board working plans and specifications of all the buildings named. He will adver-tise immediately and by the first of the coming month the work on the buildings will be commenced. Mr. Allen's Requisition.

Mr. J. H. Allen, chief of the ma plans for the machinery plant for the exposition and yesterday submitted a de exposition and yesterday submitted a de-sign for this work, involving a cost of $37,000. The report was adopted and the plant will be put in according to Mr. Allen's plans. The machinery will be thorough and elaborate.

Will Erect Club Houses.

Through Mr. E. A. Felder a propos! tion from the Manufacturers' Association of Cincinnati, to erect a neat looking clubhouse on the exposition grounds, was submitted to the board. The members of this organization have shown great in terest in the exposition and many of them will have exhibits here. The movement to have a clubhouse here has already been given strong impetus in Cincinnati by the subscription of several hundred dollars. What the club asked of the ex-position was space for the building, Mr. Felder was instructed to wire Mr. F. H. Richardson, of this city, who speak t a banquet of the association tonight, o state to the association that the exposi-ion will be pleased to grant space for the building.

President Collier stated that he had an application from several labor organiza-tions for space on which to erect a building which should be the headquarters of all the labor organizations of the country.
The request was granted. The organizations will erect a pretty little building and it will be the headquarters of all laboring men who shall visit the exposition.

Another Building To Go Up.

Mr. James R. Wylle stated that already more than enough applications for space had been received to fill the agricultural building. He said that an additional building for the display of agricultural implements was a necessity. He moved that the extent of the applications for space for such a building be erected, its size arrested by men claiming to be police officers of the city of Atlanta, and that they were without warrant or any other precep or legal authority.

The petition alleges that the arrest was inflicted upon Keely at the unseasonab hour of 11 o'clock at night and while peti tioner was sick. Keely claims that he of-fered good and sufficient surety, as a guarantee for his appearance at any court that might be designated, on the following day or at any time that might be set, and protested most strenuously against the humili-ation of arrest. Keely also alleges that he was in town thirty days previous to the time of his false imprisonment and could have been arrested in the daytime. He designates the arrest as false and fraudulent and full of malice and utterly without obable cause. Keely alleges that the alleged officers compelled him to go down to the station-house at 11 o'clock at night, where they locked him up in a cell among criminals and forced him in his weakened physical condition to submit to horrible scenes and known.

For all these reasons Maxwell Keely sues for the sum named, alleging that all pros ecution has ceased and no case is pending for Another Victory.

A GOOD CROWD OUT TO SEE IT NOW IT'S GILMORE'S, SOUSA'S, INNES'S

And the People Who Were There Enjoyed the Game-There Was Some Very Good Coaching.

The Atlantas met the Technological team yesterday afternoon at the baseball park, The crowd was small, but the game, though one-sided, was quite interesting to those who were out, and satisfied all that the team is growing better in its work every day, and that it will be ready to encounter the leaguers when the championship season opens on the 25th instant,

Green was in the box for the Atlantas and his pitching as well as his stick work was good. Armstrong dld the receiving work and made the same good showing behind the bat he has been making since he put on the Atlanta uniform. Twice during the game he put up two plays that were of the phenomenal character, one of them being a catch of a foul fly that not only took him off the earth to pull in, but turned him around and around, so swift was the ball in its flight. Knewles covered first base and his work war just what it has always been, good, clean and clever. McDade at third played that same quick, eager, anxious game he has been putting up since he came to the team, but as usual his anxiety to do something brilliant marred his work more than once. With the stick, however, he was more clever than usual. Smith at short was right in the game from the start to the end of it, and did some of the nicest pick-up work ever seen in the south. The outlierd work by Friel, Goodenough and Fisher was quick and fast and convinced all who were out that Atlanta has about as quick an out-field as was ever signed for the southern association.

The coaching throughout the game was about the best that has yet been put up. Schmidt, who has shown that he knows not only how to move the base runner along but that he can use the points to puzzle the opposing pitcher and to keep the other players guessing, was on the line, and made many friends by his hard work to pull the boys around towards the home plate. Smith, the shortstop, manifested his ability to do the same good work, and developed for the first time a good lot of coaching work—something in which he is said to be quite proficient. Armstrong was, of course, on the lines, and his voice, talk and antics were good and quite entertaining to those who were present. Than Armstrong there is no better coacher in the Southern League, and the good work he can do that way will make him friends-lots of friends. not only on the bleachers, but in the grand stand. There is nothing Atlanta observers of ball and the patrons of the game love more than good, lively coaching and the good coachers always make friends every time they give a turn at the work. Goodenously was our of the bergerstand. enough was once one of the best coachers the south has ever seen, and in Atlanta he has more than once recalled the work of John Patrick Cahill, whose photograph is in the corner stone of the state. Goodenough, however, promises that he will be on the line when his work is needed and that he line when his work is needed, and that he will help by voice and sign;, as well as by the stick, when it comes his turn to push the men around the bases to the counting point the men around the bases to the counting point.

Lawshe and Chapman did the pitching for the Techs, Lawshe doing the work for the first six innings and Chapman the rest of the work. The Atlantas found the two Lech pitchers for twenty-one hits, nine of them being off Lawshe and tweive off Chapman, Stone, who caught for the Techs, put up a mighty clever game, and showed quite a nice lot of throwing to second, some of his throwing pulling down the rin-getting capacity of the Atlantas. The fielding of the Techs was especially good during the first part of the game, but before the work was over the men went to pieces. It was, to, at the critical point of the game that they went to pieces and the Atlantas seized the opportunity and pounded the ball and ran the bases for all that they were worth.

Pittsburg and Chattanooga. Chattanooga, Tenn., April IZ.—The practice game this afternoon between Pittsburg National League team and Chattanooga was interesting, but there were few brilliant plays. A small crowd attended. Sugden, who played with Chattanooga two years since in the Southern League, is a good acquisition to the big league. He knocked the only three-bagger. Two or three men with Pittsburg are still ou the anxious seat. The Pirates are all hard hitters and play well together.

Gilmore's band has been added to the musical attractions of the exposition. This superb musical organization will furnish music for the big show during the six first weeks.

The securing of this band completes the list of musical attractions and gives to the exposition three of the finest bands in the world-

Sousa's, Gilmore's and Innes's, These three organizations will alternate in their coming, Gilmore's coming first for six weeks, then Innes's for six weeks and Sousa will come for the remaining period of the exposition. Mr. Alex W. Smith, chairman of the music committee, has conducted the negotiations which will result in the coming to Atlanta of these three magnificent bands. He has met with some opposition in the big scheme, but has worked away at it with such vigor and determination that the committee he announced that he would secure the best in the musical line for the exposition. He argued that it was a matter of necessity to have the very finest that the musical world afforded. He at once engaged the various representative bailds in correspondence.

The first proposition was made to the famous Innes band. The contract with this band was closed several weeks ago. It was agreed that this band should cover an engagement of six weeks at the exposition, presenting during that time a grand spectacle of war, which this organization has presented with great success throughout the Next came the contract with the Sousa organization. This was closed a fortnight ago and Mr. Smith went at once to work to fill the remaining weeks of the exposition. When Victor Herbert was here with Gilmore's band a short time ago Mr. Smith outerred with him as to terms. Since that time the two gentlemen have been carry-ing on negotiations and early this week the matter reached a head, Yesterday afternoon at the meeting of the executive board a report was presented by Mr. Smith recommending the engaging of Gilmore's band at the figures agreed upon between him and Mr Herbert's renre was secured.

No piece of enterprise achieved by the exposition is better representative of the ambitious character of the exposition than this. The exposition is spending thousands of dollars on this item of music and people from every part of the world will be delighted with the three excellent musical organizations which will dispense during the entire period of the great

ALMOST READY FOR WORK. Mr. Storm Will Turn Out a Fine

Grade of Goods. Mr. Francis Storm, the gentleman from Brooklyn who has devoted his life to the manufacturing of glassware and who has just purchased the Atlanta glass works, expects to begin operations within next month.

Since Mr. Storm came to Atlanta and made the purchase of the Atlanta glass works he has been besieged by applica-tions for stock in the new company. At first he was not inclined to put any of the stock on the market, but so frequent have the inquiries been that he has at last decided to let out four hundred shares of $50 each. The company is stocked at $10,000 and those who subscribe to finy of the shares that are to let are assu Mr. Storm of 8 per cent dividend and a share in all the profits.

"The work," said Mr. Storm, speaking of the matter yesterday, "have a large ca-pacity and with a very small outlay, I can increase the works to the equal of any in the country. The advantages are all that could be asked for, too. We have cheap coal, cheap land and cheap labor, with an inexhaustible market and the best shipping facilities. There is no glass factory in the east, west or anywhere else that can compete with the work we can turn out. Pittsburg would be the nearest competitive point and the freight alone from that place would be a great profit for our factory. I shall make lamps, lampchimneys, lantern-globes, tumblers and a better grade of flint bottles than has ever been seen in the south."

Sid Phelan's Jerseys.

From The Greenesboro, Ga., Heraid.

Mr. S. H. Phelan, of Kirkwood, sent twenty-one of his Jerseys to his plantation here, for pasturage, last Saturday. He is anxious to move his entire herd here and would do so if a good bridge was constructed at old "Long Brindge." His dairy farm if located in Greene county, would be worth thousands of dollars to the county, as an object lesson of our possibilities as a stock and dairy county.

WOMEN IN THE SPRING.

They Need Nothing So Much as Paine's Celery Compound.

In the spring women need Paine's celery | given above, says in his own paper, edicompound.

The average American woman, says a well known writer, wears herself out twenty years before her time. She Legins the wearing out process as a child, staying up at night until the whole family retires; and keeps it up as a growing girl, staying awake until 10 or 11 o'clock, when she should be asleep by nine; and as a woman she has so many things to do and to keep up with that she positi /oly hasn't roads upon her health.

By and by her cheeks grow thin and haggard; languor takes the place of her old-time high spirits; she has a .enerally worn-out air; her nerves are gnawed by pain, and sleeplessness makes fearful inroads upon her health.

Her physician tells her simply that her nervous system is exhausted, and that help must come by feeding the urain and entire nervous tract, richly, rapidly and completion. completely. It is the experience of the most careful medical men in this country that nothing proves so uniformly successful of Paine's celery compound in cases of brain weariness, nervous inability, fail-ure of vital force, dyspepsia, sleeplessness, and for restoring health and dgor to the brain and body when exhausted by over-

"Our leading druggist, Dr. W. G. Gregory, informs us that his seles of Paine's celery compound have been wenderful; in fact, he states that he has in its months sold more celery compound than all other medicines combined. There has been a constant demand for it.

He commenced using Paine's celery compound, and today there is not a more well and vigorous effizer in this whole community than Mr. Clinard. ## CARR JURY TIED UP Jurors Couldn't Agree as to the Prisoner's Mental State.

FIVE FOR SANITY, SEVEN FOR INSANITY

They Were Dismissed by the Ordinary and a Mistrial Declared.

THERE WILL BE ANOTHER TRIAL

Foreman McRae Believed That Carr Was Crazy and Wanted To So Find. The Details.

A mistrial was declared in the Carr lunacy case at 8 o'clock last night. The jury announced, after remaining out more than two hours and a half, that there was not the slightest likelihood that an agreement would be reached.

The jury stood five for sanity and seven Once more this announcement was made and, finally, at the hour stated, the jury was excused. This may mean that Alex Carr will again be tried on the issue of Ordinary Calhoun sent the jurors into the jury room at ten minutes to 5 o'clock, after a few words as to the form of veidict. Four speeches were made after all the evidence was in. Alex Carr was not in the courtroom when the mistrial was announced. Two or three attorneys, other than those engaged in the trial, relatives of Alex Carr, a couple of newspaper men and some tired bailiffs, along with Ordinary Calhoun, composed the straggling audience. Only the two lamps on the judge's bench were lit and the scene was one of the 'dim religious light" order. Since there has been a mistrial, it now remains to be decided as to whether there is to be another and when. Ordinary Calhoun says that there is no specific provision in section 4666, the section under which the trial was had, but that he did not doubt that a second trial was implied.

"I do not care to talk about it at present." said Ordinary Calhoun. "There is no specific provision for a rew trial, but it is doubtless implied.

language of the code is as follows: Section 4666. Become Insane After Conviction. If, after any convict shall have been sentenced to the punishment of death, he shall become insane, the sheriff of the county, with concurrence and assistance ordinary thereof, shall summon a jury of twelve men to inquire into such insanity; and if it be found, by the inquisition of such jury, that such convict is insane, the sheriff shall suspend the execution of the sentence directing the death said inquisition and suspension of execution to the presiding judge of the district who shall cause the same to be entered on the minutes of the superior court of the county where the conviction was had. And, at any time thereafter when it shall appear to the said presiding judge, either inquisition or otherwise, that the said convict is of sound mind, the said judge shall issue a new warrant, directing the sheriff to do execution of the said sentence on said convict, at such time and place as the said judge may appoint and direct in the said warrant, which the sheriff will be bound to do accordingly. J. W. Baum testified as to Carr's ability as a workman, Captain Ellis conducting the cross-examination. County Physician Gilbert.

County Physician Gilbert testified that Carr's condition was but little changed. He thought that he was perhaps a little fleshier. He had never observed that Carr's respiration was above the normal to the extent of 35. He said that when 'arr was first taken he lay on his back and turned over when witness came near, Witness was asked if a man who lay lown would not get up at night and why. Dr. Gilbert thought that he would get up and for the purpose of resting himself.

This question was on the line suggested by the testimony of John Victor Johnson, the upholsterer, who testified that he spent two nights in Carr's cell and that Carr staid in bed all lay and sat up at Jail Guard McCullough testified that he had charge of Carr on the morning watch. He fed Carr most of the time. "He has asked for tobacco, for mone; and a razor. Once he said I was against

Some Sensational Testimony.

On the cross-examination Mr. Arne asked McCullough: "Isn't it true he said to you: 'They are 'No, Mr. Arnold; he said to me twice You are against me.' He was mad." "Wasn't Dr. Smith there?"

"He was, but he didn't hear it. He said he had been hurt twice." McCullough was allowed to retire. He was recalled for the purpose of showing that he was simply a guard.

Witness was asked questions by Jurors Ditter, Hansell and Shropshire, who wanted to know whether Carr showed any preference for any certain food. Witness said he did not.

Carr Once Called for Water. The next witness was J. B. Sansby. He testified that Carr resisted the hair cutting and said, "They're a-raging."

Witness also testified that Carr ate in a mincing fashion.

Carr Asked for Tobacco. Lon Castleberry testified that he was not present at the hair cutting. "Does he ever ask for anything?" asked the solicitor. "No, except for tobacco." "Well, yesterday he drank a pint of

Dr. J. McFadden Gaston was recalled by the defense and testified to the drinking of the water. Thought that it was natural to ask for.

"Is it likely that he would ask for the water by the proper name?" asked Foreman McRae. 'It is not," replied Dr. Gaston.

As to What Carr Said. Dr. Smith said that he was examining Carr when Care got up and started out of the cell. McCullough was in the doorway and there was a short struggle, and Carr used some incoherent expression. Didn't know what it was. Probably "they are crossing over" or "they are raging."
"Who was nearer to Carr, you or McCullough?" asked Major Hansell, a juror. "McCullough and Carr were facing each other and Carr had him by the arm. I was standing two or three steps away. On the cross-examination Dr. Smith said that McCullough was in a better position to hear than he was.

Regarding certain scientific issues in the case he differed with Dr. Baird; in fact, his statements were diametrically opposed to those of Dr. Baird.

Impeaching a Witness. Fred Ferris was called and swore that ne wouldn't believe Joe Reynolds, whose estimony was read, on oath. On the cross-examination it developed Hall against Gould on Mr. Gould's side. He said Reynolds made as could's side. He said Reynolds made an affidavit and wouldn't stick to it. He was asked for names of men he had heard say they wouldn't believe Reynolds on oath.

"I heard Mr. Glenn."
"He was attorney for Mr. Gould, wosn't he?" asked the solicitor.

No, he never told me." John Carr Testifies at Length.

John Carr, the brother of Alex, was pu on the stand. He is the man who was jointly indicted with Alex and Bailey for the murder of King. He simply stated that his brother was insane and that there was insanity in the family. He also said he stated that Alex Carr had beer crazy all his life and that he so told Dr.

Dr. Knott was called to the stand and testified that he had a conversation with John Carr and B. E. Bailey and that John Carr and he had never noticed anything wrong in Alex until within a short while after the killing. The Jurors Retire to Consult.

Captain W. D. Ellis Speaks.

Captain Ellis then spoke for the state. He went upon the line that Carr was making splendid use of a well-developed ability to act. He took up the killing of Captain King and traced Carr's physical condition from the time of the shooting until the present time. He told how Carr had said he had a cause for killing Captain King and that Bailey said King shot first; that when Carr saw that proof was absolute that King had no pistol then he began to assume insanity. Captain Ellis began to assume insanity. Captain Ellis said that because Carr sat in silence was no reason he was insane, though it ap-peared to be the only basis for the claim of insanity.

At the conclusion of Captain Ellis's speech court adjourned until 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon. Solicitor Hill's Splendid Effort.

Solicitor Hill said that the very reasons that were urged to show that Carr is insane go to prove that he is sane. He took up a number of incidents that were cited by Carr's witnesses and in logical manner demonstrated how they had been

That's Carr's case precisely. He had to feign insanity. The gallows stared him in the face."

The solicitor concluded his argument masterful fashion Colonel Arnold in Closing Argument.

Colonel Reuben Arnold followed the silicitor in a splendid speech.

"The law in regard to the power of the ordinary is so vague on this matter that I do not know whether it is within the scope of its intention that I should charge you, so I shall say only a few words.
"Society and public prosperity demand, and the law provides, that when a man is convicted of murder and becomes insane he shall not be hung while in that condition. You, gentlemen, are the inquisi-tors. You are the sole judges, and you alone, and the matter rests with you. You can, if you so desire, have Alex Carr brought before you." Ordinary Cathoun then charged the Proposals for Bids.

Executive Department, State of Georgia, Atlanta, March 14, 1895.—By authority and in pursuance of an act of the general assembly of the state of Georgia entitled "An act to provide for the sale of the Northeastern railroad; to make provisions for the discharge of the liability of the state on the bonds of said railroad company, and for this purpose to authorize the issue of bonds of the state, the par value of which will be equal to the amount of the state's liability by reason of its endorsement upon the bonds of said company; to authorize the exchange of said company; to authorize the exchange of said state bonds with the holders of said endorsed bonds and to provide for the sale of so many of the said state bonds as may be necessary to pay such of the endorsed bonds as shall not be thus exchanged and of all accrued interest on said endorsed bonds, and for other purposes." Approved December 18, 1894. Bids will be received at the treasury of the state in the city of Atlanta, Ga., until 10 o'clock a. m., on Wednesday, the first day of May, 1895, for

A series of the bonds of the state of Georgia, to pay the principal and accrued interest of the Northeastern railroad bonds endorsed by the state. Said principal and interest amounting to two hundred and ninety thousand (8290,000) dollars, more or less. The number of bonds issued being determined by the cash payment made by the purchaser of the Northeastern railroad at the sale thereof on April 16, 1895, at Athens, Ga. Said bonds shall be of the denomination of $500 each and shall be dated. May, 1, 1885, and due twenty years thereafter, and shall bear interest 3½ per cent per annum and shall be payable, both principal and interest, at the office of the treasury of the state in the city of Atlanta, Ga., and also in the city of New York, at such a bank as the governor may elect. To each of said bonds coupons will be attached for the interest due on said bonds, which will be paid semi-annually on the first day of May and November of each year. All are delivered to the purchaser. Said bonds will be non-taxable by any authority whatsoever in this state. All bids must be accompanied by a deposit of $10,000, to be made with the treasurer of the state, which deposit is made as a guarantee that the successful bidder will faithfully carry out his confract as set forth in his bid made to the treasurer as above called for. Said deposit may be made in a check for that amount certified by a solvent bank approved by the treasurer. The right is hereby reserved to reject any and all bids, and under a provision of the act authorizing the sale, no bid will be received with any proviso or condition other than that called for in the advertisement.

THEY WILL ORGANIZE MONDAY NIGHT

Company -It Will Give Atlanta Its Ninth Company.

Mr. Tom Ryan Will Be Captain of the New

Atlanta now has nine military companies, all of which, except one-the Gate City Guard-are attached to the FifthGe orgia regiment, commanded by Lieutenant Colonel John S. Candler.

And the indications are that before the month is out the tenth company will be formed and will seek recognition at the hands of the adjutant general of the state and apply for a place in the ranks of the Fifth regiment. The new company, if formed, and there is very little doubt about its formation, will be known as the Emmet Guard and will present a roster carrying the names of some of the best known, most energetic and most active young men of the city. It will be a company composed of jolly, brave, fearless and plucky young fellows, fellows who are able to take care of themselves anywhere the day or night may find them.

The formation of the company and its make-up are yet embryotic. The nucleus of the company, however, when the first roll call is sounded will show that they are graduates from the school of military as taught by the Hibernian Rifles.

It appears there is no one, however, who is willing to talk openly about the matter, that in the ranks of the Hibernian Rifler there has recently been some dissatisfac-tion and that quite a number of the members of that company are ready and willing to leave the old armory in which they have done the hard training work which is a part of a soldier's life.

The defection from the ranks of the Hibernians in no sense of the word indicates a dissatisfaction with the old company and its discipline. It is simply a desire on the part of the young men who are cutting away to form a new and strong company of quick, ready volunteers who will be ready at a minute's notice to respond to the call of the governor, the mayor or any one having vested in him the right to call out the soldiers of the

The Hibernian Rifles, the company from which will come the working force of the new company at the start, is one of the best, most thoroughly organized and completely equipped companies of the Fifth regiment. The company is about six years old and yet it is recognized as one of the best drilled and most soldierly members of the Fifth regiment. It seems, however, that some of the members of the company have come to the conclusion that better service could be rendered the state in return for the payment the state gives by the formation of a new company. The matter has been under advisement for some time past. But just when the new company will be formed is not known.

The first step in the direction of the new company was taken when Lieutenant Ryan, of the Hibernians, resigned. This was the first fire and the skirmish line was at once formed, a line, however, with retire ment and not advance marked upon its Those who have the movemen for the new company in view will have a meeting Monday night, when the proposed plan of organization of the new company will be fully and freely discussed. So far there has been nothing but informal talk and work among those who will become members of the company and very little new company. But it has been suggested that Mr. Ryan, until recently a lieutenamin the Hibernian Rifles, will be made captain of the company, and that a lieuten-antcy will be tendered Mr. Ben Goldsmith was once were the epaulets in the Gate who once wore the epaulets in the Gate City Guard. The list of names signed to the paper The list of names signed to the paper contemplating the formation of the new company shows some of the best and most progressive young men of the city.

If the new company is formed Atlanta will have ten military companies.

In Atlanta there are now the Governor's Horse Guards, commanded by Captain Dozier, carrying sixty men, well mounted, a company which was organized in 1883; the Atlanta Artiflery, with fifty men, organized in 1886 and commanded by Captain J. F. Kempton; the Atlanta Rifles, formed in the same year as the Artillery, and com-J. F. D. Ellis, Jr., with forty men; the Machine Gun Platoon, an adjunct to the Atlanta Artillery, commanded by Lieutenant Plyer, with twenty men; the Hospital Corps, twenty-five strong, under command of Captain Childs, and the Gate City Guard, one of the oldest and best military companies of the south.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS AND FORECAST

The atmospheric pressure was abnormally high over most sections of the country last night. The low area which was central a few days ago over the south-west took a northeasterly course, decreaswest took a northeasterly course, decreasing somewhat in energy, and at 7 o'clock, p. m., it was central over the lake region. This disturbance cused a few light rains to fall in that locality yesterday and at the hour of observation last night the rain had extended eastward to western New York, and the entire lake region, the Ohio and St. Lawrence valley and north Atlantic states were enveloped in a cloud area. In other portions of the country is was generally dry and clear.

For Georgia today: Fair.

It Is Said the Emmet Guards Will Have | As the White Metal Has Gone Down. Wheat Has Followed.

HEAVY LOSSES TO FARMING STATES

It Is Estimated That the West Loses $38, 200,000 a-Year and the Southern States Immensely More.

From The New York World.

Your editorial of the 31st, ultimo, on "Business Is Better" suggests that "in wheat as in cotton the statistics are all against an advance of price, and yet the price has advanced, and the fact can only be explained by reference to an expected and probable increase in purchasing ca-pacity, by reason of larger employment, higher wages and better business.

There is no mystery to the student in the recent advance of prices, and your two million readers should know it, and should likewise be made aware of the sol cause and cure of this financial depression. The advance of silver necessarily means the advance of prices and a corresponding ease in meeting the thousand million dollars of debts in the United States now payable on a gold basis. It is immutable that, "other things remaining unchanged, the price of wheat and cotton is immediately dependent upon the price of silver, or the purchasing power of the silver standard as emasured in gold, or the purchasing power of the gold standard."

The reason is simple. The prices of all The reason is simple. The prices of an products in silver countries for the past twenty years have averaged about the normal of 1872 in this country. They have declined 42 per cent average in all gold countries. In other words the purchasing power of silver has averaged about 100 or par, while the purchasing power of gold averaged 172 in October last. The following table explains the two positions.

The column of silver prices is from Hon.

J. Barr Robertson, secretary of agriculture for India. The gold prices are compiled from the index numbers of Sauerbach and The London Economist:

Prior to the closing of the Indian mints in 1893 the purchasing power of an ounce of silver in India was $1.37, because the ratio is 15 to 1. Hence the ounce bought at, say, 60 cents in gold paid for a purchase of $1,37 in wheat and cotton. producers must compete, with the natural result of 50-cent wheat and 5-cent cotton. The method of Indian purchases now in vogue is much the same, except that the export duty on silver and the artificial efforts employed in keeping up the price of Indian exchange at London enable the buyer of Indian products to purchase at about 50 cents on the dollar instead of 45 cents with silver at, say, 63 cents per Every advance in silver, however, in-creases the cost of such Indian purchases and of necessity advances our markets. Hon, Henry Chaplin, M. A NEGRO'S REMARKABLE MEMORY. Able To Recall Names of All the Members of His Company in the War.

A very confident young attorney was knocked out in the federal district court in Louisville, Ky., the other day by a negro with a remarkable memory. John O'Neai, of Covington, Ky., was the lawyer. His client was on trial for making affidavit that a certain pension claimant was one John Harris, a member of Company C, One Hundred and Nineteenth regiment of colored volunteers. During the investigation f the claim it was developed that John Harris died in a military hospital at Camp Nelson, just about the close of the war. Mr. O'Neal believed that there were two John Harrises in the company and that his client had been honestly mistaken. As one witness after another testified, his theory seemed to be supported, and he began to think that his client would be acquitted, when the last witness came up to be sworn, This was a negro, who had been a member of Company C, and had messed with John Harris. He swore that he saw John die in the hospital.

"You remember that there were two John Harrises in your company?" asked Mr. O'Neal, blandly, but the witness was not caught napping and denied there were two John Harrises.

"How do you know there weren't?" asked Mr. O'Neal, sharply. "You remember only a few of the men?"

"Yes, I do, sah," answered the witness. "I kin 'membeh a lot ob 'em."

"Well name them, then,' said the lawdie in the hospital.

"Well, name them, then," said the lawyer.

The witness called off seventeen names and then halted. Mr. O'Neal smiled and told him to go on. The negro did so, and, with little hesitation, named ninety of the 100 men in his company.

"If you'll gib me a little mo' time I'll tell you who de rest wuz," he said.
"Never mind," said the lawyer. "Isn't it likely you didn't know the others person-

"Yes, sah," was the answer. "Dere was a man named Miller and anothah whose name was Bates dat I nebber seed. Dey name was bates dat? I nebel seed. Dey wuz detached foh special duty befo' I Jined. Den dere wuz some dat died just befo' I 'listed. Come to t'ink 'bout it, I kin telly you all de names now."

"Never mind," said Mr. O'Neal, and even twice Pare smiled. The clerk had had a

"Never mind," said Mr. O'Neal, and even Judge Barr smiled. The clerk had had a copy of the company roster before him as the negro called off the names and had kept tab, with the result of showing that the negro was correct. The old fellow deckared he had never seen a copy of the roster. Lawyers say that his testimony was the most remarkable feat of memory they had ever witnessed.

THE JURY STILL OUT

No Verdict Has Yet Been Reached in the Worley Case.

COURT ADJOURNED LATE LAST NIGHT

The Jury Was Still Considering the Testimony.

WILL MEET AT 10 THIS MORNING

Able Argument in the Case Yesterday. Judge Newman's Clear and Convincing Charge.

When the United States court adjourned at 10 o'clock last night no verdict had been reached in the case of the two alleged whitecappers, Dave Butler and John

The jury had been out over four hours at that time, and just before adojurnment sent word to Judge Newman that there wto no likelihood of an immediate agree-

Judge Newman then adjourned court until 10 o'clock this morning.

Speculation as to the nature of the verdict was lively last night. The general belief was that a mistrial would be declared. It was stated, however, that the jury stood eleven for conviction and one for acquittal. Whether there was any foundation for this amor could not be learned.

It is thought likely that when the court n eets this morning the jury will be ready w.th a verdict.

All of yesterday was consumed by the argument in the case. The argument was characterized by some exceptionally able speeches on both sides. Colonel Glenn made a brilliant effort for the defense Colonel Rucker made a strong speech, Mr. J. E. Robinson made an impressive argument and Colonel Joe James made what was pronounced the best effort of his life. The other speeches were all splendid.

The speaking concluded at 5:20 o'clock. Judge Newman charged the jury for ten minutes and that body retired. It remained in close consultation until after 10

When the jury retired it was thought that a verdict would be brought in in a very short while. The jury had spent the night previous thinking over the testimony and had listened to the arguments of the attorneys during the day. Every one thought that the mind of every juror was made up.

Judge Newman remained in his seat for about an hour waiting for the return of the jury. The large crowd of spectators, attorneys and court attaches also remained in attendance. Shortly after 7 o'clock Judg Newman announced that he was going out for supper and would return at 8:30 o'clock. This was the signal for the departure of the crowd. The attorneys and others took advantage of the opportunity and went down for supper

Judge Newman returned promptly at 8:30 and was informed that the jury was still indecisive. There was still a good crowd waiting in the courtroom. Colonel Glenn and the other attorneys lounged around telling stories while the time passed. The two defendants kept their seats and waited a little nervously. Butler occupied the seat in which he has sat throughout the tr al. His wife, a hard-worked, kindly-aced woman, sat by him, holding in her arms a noisy babe. Now and then Butler would turn and quiet the child. Marshal Dunlap went into the jury room once or twice and returned with the information that no verdict had been reached. It seemed at 10 o'clock as if the jurors were as far from an agreement as they had been four hours before and Judge Newman decided to give them until this morning to make up their minds. He instructed the marshal to take them to their

Court will convene at 10 o'clock this morning and if a verdict has been agreed upon it will be immediately delivered to the court. In the opinion of many it will be a mistrial.

On the opening of court yesterday morning Colonel Glenn asked for the privilege of proving an important fact that he had failed to develop on the preceding day.

Judge Newman refused to allow Colonel Glenn before he had first intimated to the court, beyond the hearing of the jury, the character of the fact that he sought to

After a brief conference the court refused to allow the introduction of new evidence, as the case had closed. The attorneys on both sides, however, agreed to let the fact go in, and Colonel Glenn merely stated the point to the jury.

Judge Newman then called the attorneys together for the purpose of agreeing upon the order of argument and the time to be consumed.

Colonel Glenn announced that three speeches would be made for that three speeches would be made for the government and two for the defense. Colonel Bell would open for the government, followed by Mr. J. E. Robinson for the defense. Colonel T. W. Rucker would then speak, after which Colonel Glenn would close for the defense, followed by Colonel James, who would close for the prosecution. Each side would close for the prosecution. Each side would be entitled to two hours and a half.

Colonel Bell's Opening Speech. In addressing the jury Colonel Bell paid his respects to the patient and appreciative manner in which they had followed the testimony as developed from the witness stand. He stated, in a brief and compre-hensive manner, the contentions of the prosecution and reviewed the details of the foul convipracy from the time it was first plan-ned in the old sawmill until it was con-summated at the dead hour of night. He apprehended that the counsel for the de-fense would dig up the lifeless bones of Henry Worley and parade his faults before the jury in extenuation of the crime of the defendants; but the faults of Worley could not acquit them of the guilt that was branded on their foreheads and that glared at them, in hideous scowling, from the testimony. He pictured the transaction in vivid colors and made a clear, vigorous and elo-quent speech in behalf of the prosecution. Mr. Robinson for the Defense.

respect. It is purest and strongest.

Mr. J. E. Robinson made the opening speech for the defense. He promised that he would occupy the attention of the jury for only three-quarters of an hour. He would leave the remainder of the time allowed the defense to one who was more experienced than himself. The young advo-cate declared that the question before the jury was not the existence of a whitecap organization in north Georgia, but whether or not the defendants on trial were guilty of conspiracy. He denied that he had any purpose in his heart to resurrect the bones of Worley. He would acquit the defendants without impunging a dead man's memory. After this brief but eloquent introduction he proceeded to discuss the testimony of each of the witnesses. His speech gave eviof the fact that he had closely fol-the proceedings, and carried the testimony in his mind without the aid of notes or written preparation.

Colonel Rucker Before the Jury.

Colonel T. W. Rucker made one of the best speeches of his life. He began his argument by addressing his opening remarks to the court. After this he paid his eloquent attention to the jury, stating that he expected to prove to them that the defendants were not only guilty beyond a reasonable doubt, but guilty beyond all doubt. He rec-ognized the fact that a juror was a human being and he would address himself to the jury with this understanding. He had no defense to make of Henry Worley; his lips were sealed in the silence of the grave. He had been brutally butchered in his own corn field, and the shadows of eternity had shrouded him forever; but he would say in this connection that the faults of Henry Worley could not be pleaded in extenuation of the guilt of the defendants. The cause of the outrages committed by the whitecap organization was the information given by revenue informers. The killing of Worley was due to this offense and to this offense alone. Colonel Rucker then proceeded to discuss the formation of the conspiracy to ss the formation of the ang Worley, based upon the threats he had made against the whitecap organization at Dalton, Ga., in the presence of Com-missioner Hamilton. He argued the testimony of witnesses showing that John Quarles, Sr., and David Butler were both present at the sawmill, in which place the conspiracy was formed. Colonel Rucker, in eloquent language, here pictured the atrocious plot of the men to make orphans of Worley's children and a widow of his wife. He argued the language of Worley's mother in calling him a traitor, and made it strongly appear to the jury that it was the highest proof of the fact that he had been giving away stills and that such was the cause of his death and not his alleged brutality to his wife and children. The details of the long march and the midnight hanging were described by Colonel Rucker in vivid language, and the jury was treated to a rare and eloquent piece of word-paint-ing. After this the testimony of each witwas carefully sifted, and the of the prosecution presented to the jury onel Rucker with force and elo and three-quarters. He began his speech the dropping of a pin could have been dis-

of Colonel Rucker occupied one hour Colonel Glenn's Brilliant Speech. It was 1 o'clock when Colonel Glenn began his closing argument for the defense. Mr. Robinson, having occupied only three-quarters of an hour, Colonel Glenn was entitled to the remainder of the time-an hour and three-quarters. He began his speech by making a number of legal citations. He argued that every syllable of the testimony giving the federal court jurisdiction had proceeded from the accomplices in the hanging of Henry Worley, and without corroboration, the truth of their testimony could not be legally established. This phase of the case was argued by Colonel Glenn with marvelous force and ability. He traced the origin of the kuklux organization. From the embers of the old clan the new brotherod had sprung, and the lawless outrages that were perpetrated by it were not caused by the information given to the govern-ment by revenue informers, but by various sundry grievances. In a burst of eloquence Colonel Glenn insisted that he had no purpose in his heart to magnify the faults of Henry Worley, but he knew beyond doubt that his crimes would follow him as the atrocious outrages of the duke of Alva and still survive their perpetrator, and as the ignominy of Judas Iscariot still awed the world after eighteen centuries! He argued that Worley had betrayed his gang in violating his solemn oath and not in reporting their stills, and this was the reason of his killing and this was the cause of his own mother's declaration that her son was a traitor. There was no safety for the gang except by placing upon Worley's lips the seal of eternal silence. Not content with giving away his gang he wants to barter his fiving away his gang he wants to barter his information and seeks out W. J. Duncan for the purpose of selling his treachery at the rate of $10 a still. "Is it a right and privilege," said Colonel Glenn, "to be a hireling spy and carry on traffic with the government in this unrighteous way?"

Colonel Glenn argued the testimony of the witnesses with south and convincing the witnesses with acute and convincing logic, and made a speech that was masterly, not only in the vigor of his thought, but in the fervor of its eloquence.

Colonel Glenn Concludes. Colonel Glenn resumed his speech imme Colonel Glenn resumed his speech immediately upon the reassembling of court in the afternoon. He spoke for forty minutes, clearly and eloquently putting the case of his clients and handling the testimony with masterly skill. He closed eloquently.

tween law and order and one of the most powerful conspiracies ever formed in this country. This organization is oathbound, it does its deeds in secret and at night. They are a band of illicit distillers, obligated by the very strongest ties to each other to break down every effort of the government in the collection of its revenues and they destroy the property of nues, and they destroy the property of those who oppose them and in many in-stances kill and murder people. They have committed every crime known to the cata-logue, and yet have gone free without the slighest punishment. The present trial will develop the question as to whether the law is strong enough to break the hold that this nefarious band of outlaws has on this particular section of Georgia. It's crimes are a foul blot upon the fair name of our

"The evidence shows that we have the right men. The defendants on trial are connected with this conspiracy. Butler is the captain and Quarles is the lieutenant of one of these organizations. They were present when the conspiracy was entered into to kill Worley; they went with others once to kill him, but did not find him "Turn these defendants loose and you re-establish this organization, you break down every effort for its destruction that has been made and we lose all the expense to which the government has been put in try-ing to restore to that section of our state the security of life that is specified in the constitution and laws of the country. There is no doubt but that the prayers of the law-abiding people of that community are ascending upward during the progress of this trial that justice may be done and that the law may be vindicated, that right may predominate and evil doers be punished, which can never'be done short of the con viction of these defendants.

"Every obstacle has been thrown in the way of the government possible. The leading counsel for the defendants, Mr. W. C. Glenn," said Colonel James, "has fought the case at every turn. He has tried to destroy Colonel Chapman and Colonel Hetherington in their positions as United States officers. He has made several attempts to blot out United States commis sioners. He has made some very bold as saults on the district and other courts of the United States. He has ridiculed in every conceivable way deputy marshals, government witnesses, informers and those who aid the government in the collection of its revenues and has made several unssful and unwarranted attacks on the ct attorney and his assistants, but despite his every effort that which may be warranted by law and that which was not justified by facts or circumstances in the case, his clients are at last brought to justice independent and over his every object tion. My efforts and the efforts of my assistants have been to do nothing but to ascertain the truth, the whole truth in this case, and the insinuation by Mr. Glenn during the trial that anyhing else has been done is a perversion of the truth, is without foundation and is unbecoming to the counsel on the opposite side, and no effort of his or of any one else will prevent the law from being at last administered.

Truth may be covered for a while, but it is like the hidden fire in the voicano, when it bursts forth it destroys everything around it. God is behind the truth and He may permit it to be smothered for a while, as has been done in these cases in north Georgia, but he uncovers the truth and it comes sweeping on like a cyclone in the forest. The sunlight of truth is now being turned upon this transaction and the only thing that remains to be done is for you to write a verdict of guilty as to these de fendants.

"Henry Worley was in the hands of this mob. His wife had deserted him; his mother had said to the crowd: 'Take him on, I do not wish to see him.' He was a man without friends in that community. He was hated by all, it seems. They despised him because he was trying to uphold the law; they abused him for doing right and these defendants here before you helped to hang him at the time charged. went to his house in disguise, carried him away from his home a distance of four miles and there, with nothing but this crowd of men banded together to work death and ruln in that country, they proceeded to hang Worley, and but for the narrow escape he made, his life would have been put to an end that night under that Colonel James was warmly congratulated Judge Newman's Charge.

The charge of Judge Newman was clea and convincing, although occupying only about ten mirutes. It was a clear exposition of the law bearing on conspiracy.

The court first called the attention of the jury to the statute on which the indictment in the case was founded, as fol-

"If two or more persons conspire to injure, oppress, threaten, or intimidate any citizen in the free exercise or enjoyment of any right or privilege secured to him by the constitution or laws of the United States, or because of his having so exercised the same, they shall be punished,' etc.

The conspiracy in this case was formed to injure Henry Worley because, as charged in the indictment, he reported certain violators of the internal revenue laws, namely: McEntire, Thornton, Bell, Terry and Hyde for carrying on the business of a distiller without having given bond as required by law.

"In the opinion of the court," said he, "and you are so instructed, when a citizen reports to the officers whose duty it is to aid and assist in the enforcement of the internal revenue laws, to suppress viola-tions of the same and to prevent the gov-ernment from being defrauded of its reve-nue, other persons who are engaged in operating distilleries and making illicit spirits in violation of law and for the pur-pose of avoiding the payment of tax thereon, any such person in making such report, thereby enabling the government to suppress fraud on its revenue system, is in the exercise of a right and privilege of a citizen of the United States. In the opinion of the court such a citizen is in the service of the United States and is under the protection of its laws, and if a conspiracy is formed to injure him be-cause of his exercise of this right and privilege, the conspiracy will come within the section of the statute which I have read to you.

"The court further instructs you that a denuty United States marshal is such an official (although, perhaps, not an officer strictly, and in the higher sense as you have heard argued to the court), yet he is such an official, having duties in connection with the enforcement of these laws, as makes him a proper party to whom to make report."

The dury need not believe that the sole make report."

The jury need not believe that the sole purpose of the conspiracy was that which is set out in the indictment. If it was one of the real, material and controlling causes

One of the strong points of the defense was that the government relied largely upon the testimony of accomplices. On that subject the judge instructed the jury

as follows:

"As to the testimony of accomplices, the court instructs you that three of the witnesses for the government are undoubtedly accomplices—Dixon, Morrison and Bramlett. The rule of law is that such testimony is received with caution, and in addition to this, it must be corroborated.

The corroborating evidence must be suf-The corroborating evidence must be suf ficient to satisfy the jury that the tes-timony of the accomplices is true; and this corroboration must be as to the real matters in issue here, namely, as to the cause of the conspiracy and as to the participation of these defendants in the unlawful enterprise. It need not directly confirm the testimony of the accomplices in all its details, but it should corroborate it in such material parts as to satisfy you of the truth of the testimony of the

The judge then alluded to the fact that no issue had been raised in the case and indeed that it was conceded by counsel fo, the defendants that a conspiracy was formed, and that its object was to injure Henry Worley, and to the fact that the real issues which were made in the case, and upon which they were to pass, were first, did these defendants participate in the unlawful enterprise and were they parties to the conspiracy, and, second, was the purpose and cause of the conspiracy named in the indictment; and als that there was no dispute in the evidence as to the facts of the efforts to hang Henry Worley in pursuance of the conspiracy

The court then instructed the jury as to the law in reference to alibis, and further as to the law applicable to the subject of impeachment of witnesses by proof of general bad character or contralictory statements. Also on the subject of reasonable doubt and conflicting evidence

The attention of the jury was then di-rected to the different counts in the indictment and how any finding on either should be made under the evidence

The judge then called the attention of the jury to the importance of the case both to the government and to the defendants and alluded briefly again to general character of the case and the real issues for their determination The case was given to the jury about

THE KILLING BRANCH POSTPONED.

The Remainder of the Worley Case Will Go Over for Some Time.

It is definitely stated that the killing branch of the Worley case will not be taken up next Monday, as has been stated heretofore. This means that all the witnesses here now must return home and come again when summoned.

The cases will go to the United States supreme court, and it is understood that if there is an effort made to take up the killing branch by the United States court, writs of habeas corpus will be taken out. The same demurrers filed in the first branch will be filed in the killing branch.

In connection with the Worley case, old man Ben Hemphill, a father-in-law of one of the defendants, will be indicted and prosecuted for perjury. He stated on the stand that he made one statement to District Attorney James and that he swore to a lie on the stand.

LOONEY GOES BACK.

The Detective Has Been Reinstated to His Old Job by Chief Connolly. It was announced yesterday that Detec-tive Dave Looney, who, during the recent election, was reduced on the force of patrolmen, has been placed back by order of Chief Connolly, after consultation with Chairman Johnson, to his old place on the detective force.

The detective was one of the three who were placed back to the force at the election, but he has never served a day on the streets, owing to the condition of his hand, which has been sprained since a fall from a street car several weeks age. Looney will be put back to look after the gamblers again. It has been shown that he is a good man in running down men of this class.

It is probable that Patroimen Joe Green and Holcombe will also be placed back in a few weeks. detective force.

A Shurp Retort.

Speaking of the late Mrs. Paran Stevens. The Worcester Gazette says: One story is repeated of her which may be placed here to her credit, although it is not long since it was told in print. An opulent woman, who had got into society, as it were, by climbing over the fence when the policeman's back was turned, once asked Mrs. Stevens in a supercilious way about a young lady she was introducing. "Who is your friend, Miss — "she said. "Miss — is a charming girl," replied Mrs. Stevens, "well bred as you see, accomplished, entertaining."

"Yes, I know," persisted the snob, "but, dear Mrs. Stevens, of course you know what I mean—who is she?"

"My dear woman," retorted Mrs. Stevens, "I can no more tell you who Miss — is than I could have told those who asked me who you were when you first came to Newport."

J. B. LEWIS, Secretary,

The Patrolman Selected by Chairman Johnson to Go on Tomorrow.

CHAIRMAN AND CHIEF IN CONSULTATION

Chief Connolly Has Yielded to the Ruling of the City Attorney and Will Cooperate with Mr. Johnson.

There were no visible signs of the disturbance of the day before at the station house yesterday.

It was a quiet day and everything went well. Dr. Foute still did his duties as station house keeper and there was nothing in the deportment of the officers and men to show that they were in any way affected by the agitation which keeps up among those who have them in charge.

Patrolman W. H. Turner will be station house keeper. A formal notice of his appointment was given to Chief Connolly by Chairman Johnson yesterday morning. According to the ruling of the city atterney he is authorized to fill the position until the appointment is ratified by the majority of the board. From the present prospect it looks as if Turner will fill the place per-manently as there seems to be no hope for a break in the deadlock. The appointment of Turner and the action of the chairman is strongly opposed tion of the chairman is strongly opposed by Commissioners Branava, English and Venable. They claim that if this appoint-ing power is given to the chairman it will give him absolute authority. Chair-man Johnson, however, contends that he simply wishes to stand by the rules adopted by the board.

"If is, not my converse," said the Laboratory

"It is not my purpose," said Mr. Johnson yesterday, "to do anything that is not fully in keeping with the law. I shall stand by this and nothing shall swerve me. After the meeting yesterday afternoon I saw that in case of an emergency it was my duty to select a man to fill the place until my action could be ratified by the board.

"I put in Turner because I knew him to be a good man. All of the board acknowledged that he was capable. Captain Engedged that he was capable. Captain English said that he knew him and thought that he was fully able to carry out the duties that would be required of him. Mr. Venable said the same thing. It is not my desire to oppose anybody where it will interfere with the workings of the department. I don't think the appointment of this man will injure the force in any way. Turner will prove to be a responsible mean Turner will prove to be a responsible man. "I want this to be known, that whatever shall occur at any time I shall rigidly adhere to the law that governs the board.

Nothing shall influence me.

"This disagreement among the commissioners will have no effect upon the force. They are working admirably. I have several reforms on foot which I intend to put forward as soon as possible. In the next week I intend to organize the mayor's re-serve. This will be composed of about six-teen patrolmen who will be dressed neatly and with white gloves and who will be stationed on the principal streets of the city. Each man will be six feet high and weigh over 175 pounds. They will make a

Mr. Johnson was asked where the feud "That I can't say. The truth is the trouble appears to be more serious, I think, than it really is. We may differ on small things that come up and the interpretation of certain rules, but all of us are looking towards the excellent of the serious of the serious of the serious the seri toward the good of the department. I know that there is not a single commissioner who will not sacrifice personal feeling or motive to further the good of the force."

Yesterday morning Chief Connolly was in consultation with Chairman Johnson. They talked over various plans. The chairman informed the chief that it was not his purpose to interfere in the matter of detailing

He recognized that in almost every instance this was the prerogative of the chief of police, but in all cases of emergency, as in the deadlock, it belonged to the chair-man of the board to make the appoint-ment until that could be ratified by the

"The only reason I had in advocating Carlyle for the place," said Chief Connolly, "was that I thought that he was the best man. He has had more experience in the duties of station house keeper and during the absence of the regular men has frequently served. Carlyle, too, has been on the force much longer and I thought it should be the policy of the department to recognize length of service."

Patrolman Turner will go on duty tomor-

WHENCE CAME THIS COIN?

Much Counterfeit Coin Turned Up About the City. A butcher whose name is Brown found A butcher whose name is Erown found yesterday a bag of counterfeit coins. In it were a number of spurious pieces, all of which were clumsily made. They were given to Patrolman Moncrief, who has reported the case to the detectives. During the last week several bags of counterfeit coms have been found in a similar way. All of them appear to have been turned out from the same mold. It is thought by the officers that there is a gang at work who are hoping to get a money factory in good working order for the exposition.

PRETTY FLOWERS.

They Are Specially Appropriate for Easter Decoration.

Enster Decoration.

For several years the people of Atlanta have been accustomed to going to the West View Floral Company when they want anything that is choice, select and fashionable in the way of flowers. The fact that this company has established one of the largest plants in the United States, employing only expert labor and keeping the newest and latest things in the way of flowers, has given the public confidence in the concern and thus a large patronage has been secured Their show windows yesterday were exceedingly attractive. They were filled with the choicest lilies and other flowers suitable for Easter, and, of course, in making your selections today you will call at the West View Floral Company's office, No. 5 Peachtree street.

The flowers grown by this company are of such a character as to have won an extensive patronage from the most cultured people, not only in Atlanta, but throughout the south Atlantic states. Many people from New Orleans, Jacksonville, Macon, Augusta and Nashville are regular customers, and yesterday several orders were filled for people from those cities. The fame of the West View Floral Company's flowers has gone abroad and on account of their beauty and quality Atlanta is now considered headquarters for this classive goods in the south. This fact should be gratifying to the directors of the company.

Today-scores of Atlanta's leading ladies will without doubt visit the West View Floral Company's salesrooms at 5 Peachtree street.
